Negro, Ex-Convict, Confesses Tumlin Murder

REENACTS CRIME BEFORE OFFICERS IN TUMLIN HOME

Brother of Miss Amanda Tumlin, Slain Woman, Released From Tower After Confession.

ROBBERY WAS ONLY MOTIVE, SAYS NEGRO

Woman Was Beaten to Death With Heavy Padlock—Confessed Slayer Had Seen Money Hoard.

James Johnson, former negro convict, confessed Tuesday afternoon to the murder of Miss Amanda Tumlin in her home on Moore's Mill road near Howell Mill road, on September 14. Robbery was given as the sole motive.

The negro was carried to the scene of the brutal murder Tuesday afternoon by county policemen and Solicitor General John A. Boykin, and there he reenacted the crime and graphically related one of the most cold-blooded murders in Fulton county in years.

Tumlin Released. Immediately after the confession of the negro was made known, Attorney Guilbeaux appealed to Solicitor Boykin for Tumlin's release. Upon recommendation of the solicitor Mr. Guilbeaux received an order signed by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, of Fulton superior court, ordering the release of Tumlin, who walked from the tower shortly after 9 o'clock a free man.

The indictment against Tumlin will probably be brought up in superior court at an early date, and will be not proceed upon the solicitor's recommendation to the court, it is stated. "Shorty," as he was known to county authorities, was arrested late Saturday night at his home at 34 Bell street and was carried to Fulton county tower, where charges of vagrancy were docketed against him. He was being held without bond and incommunicado.

Knew Tumlin Home. According to the police, the negro was released from the county convict gang on Labor day after completing a sentence for violation of the prohibition law. It was during the service of this term that he acted as a trusty water boy and on several occasions had been sent to the Tumlin home to purchase butter, eggs and milk.

The former convict told officers that on one occasion a short time before his term was complete, he went to the home of Miss Tumlin and purchased a dozen eggs and some butter, handing her a five dollar bill. She took the money and went over to her large trunk in her bedroom and from the trunk pulled out a dirty sack which appeared to contain a large sum of money. From this money she gave the negro the change due from the purchase.

On the night prior to the murder of Miss Tumlin, which occurred early

HOSPITAL READY AT PIT'S MOUTH FOR DAWN RESCUE

Michigan Workers Are Near Level Where Men Have Been Buried by Cave-In for Five Days.

Ironwood, Mich., September 28.—Ambulances, physicians and nurses were drawn up close to the mouth of the G. Palst iron mine Tuesday night as rescue workers struck nearer to the eighth level tomb where 43 miners have been imprisoned for five days.

H. G. Sutherland, superintendent of the operation, said there was every hope of reaching the victims before dawn.

If any of the miners survived their long confinement they were to be given every advantage medical science affords. A completely equipped hospital had been rigged up only a few feet away from the main shaft, with supplies to meet any emergency.

Sutherland said he was certain that the men were alive but that they would be suffering from exposure, hunger and thirst.

Vague tapings emanated from the subterranean pit during the day but the excavation work of the rescue squads made so much noise that no one could be certain whether these were signals from the prisoners or the tapping of fellow rescuers who were working up toward the pit from below.

Early Tuesday night workers digging up from below the entombed miners broke through into the twentieth level and encountered a strong updraft of air. Mining officials believed this indicated that the shaft would be found partially clear for some distance upward and were hopeful it might lead to the level forming the men's prison.

Debris Removed. Most of the debris which imprisoned the men last Friday following a cave-in had been removed from the main shaft. It was problematical whether the men would be reached first through this opening or through one of the other operations by which attempts were being made to break through to their tomb.

Sutherland put most of his faith in the approach which was being bored upward from the twenty-first level. This shaft was nearer the goal than any other, but a final barrier or rock still resisted the drills.

Another tunnel was being driven through the thirteenth level of the adjoining Aurora mine, but because of the delay caused by debris this approach was more than 200 feet from its goal and was progressing slowly.

Victory in Sight. With victory apparently in sight, the throng of relatives and friends about the entrance of the mine increased. Ropes held back the spectators, however, only the relief crews and first-aid workers being allowed close to the shaft.

'Dime Novel' Chapter Added to Numerous Thrills Which Have Marked Sensational Case

GUARD IS PLACED OVER WITNESSES

Defense Scores Several Points; Messenger Boy and Brickmason Unable to Identify Evangelist.

BY DAN CAMPBELL. (United News Staff Correspondent.) Los Angeles, Cal., September 28.—Steeped in the melodramatic atmosphere that has characterized the case since its inception, a "dime novel" chapter was added to the Aimee Semple McPherson trial when defense attorneys scored several points Tuesday.

The tide of testimony was for the first time turning in favor of the famous Bible teacher, who is fighting to clear her name of the public scandal that has linked her with her former radio operator, when events outside of the little courtroom temporarily shifted the scene of interest.

To the list of movie thrill material that includes the kidnappers, desert prison slacks, hoax plots and love tiffs, was added the death threats when Dennis Collins, said to be an important witness for the state, informed District Attorney Asa Keyes, that he had received a threatening letter.

Witnesses Guarded. Keyes ordered all witnesses removed from a downtown hotel to secret quarters as a result. The letter is the second Collins has received.

Attorneys for the evangelist, who is charged with conspiring to defeat justice in connection with her story that she was held captive by kidnappers, scored the first point in favor of Mrs. McPherson Tuesday in cross-examination.

William McMichael, a brickmason, who was expected to be a strong witness for the state, failed to identify the evangelist as the woman he had seen at the Carmel-by-the-Sea cottage, while working on a nearby structure.

McMichael could not identify the evangelist, and he failed to identify a

AL SMITH NAMED FOR FOURTH TIME TO LEAD PARTY

Governor of New York Is Alluded to Repeatedly as 'Next President of United States.'

MILLS SELECTED BY REPUBLICANS

Bone Drys Plan Fight To Bolt G. O. P. and To Fight Candidacy of Senator Wadsworth.

Syracuse, N. Y., September 28.—(AP) Alfred E. Smith, of New York, was unanimously nominated for a fourth term as governor by the New York state democratic convention here today.

All his associates on the state ticket were nominated by acclamation. Edwin Corning, Albany, was nominated for lieutenant governor, and Robert F. Wagner, New York, for United States senator.

The mention of Governor Smith's name was always a signal for demonstrations throughout the session. He was alluded to repeatedly as "the next president of the United States."

"One nomination at a time," said he, opening his speech of acceptance.

World Court Plan. Indication of his hope for political advancement was seen in his successful insistence against pronounced opposition that the party platform contain a plank declaring for American adherence to the world court. The text of the plank furnished the only real fight in the resolutions committee.

Finally accepted the plank was a compromise between the two divergent views. It follows: "We, the people of the United States, do hereby pledge our adherence to the world court, with provision to amend the constitution to ratify the same."

Attack on Wadsworth. There was a concerted attack upon the republican senator from New York, James W. Wadsworth, Jr., who will be Mr. Wagner's opponent in the event.

HURRICANE SINKS SEVERAL SHIPS OFF VERA CRUZ

Damage to Homes From Flood in Mexican Port Is Reported Heavy—No Lives Lost.

MIAMI EXCITED AT NEW WARNING

Weather Bureau, However, Later Announces Little Danger of Tempest Hitting U. S. Coast.

Mexico City, September 28.—Messages from Vera Cruz, relayed by way of Tampico, say that a hurricane struck Vera Cruz Tuesday morning causing considerable damage to property throughout the city.

Several ships in the harbor were sunk, and six feet of water is standing in the city hall and other public buildings, according to these reports. The hurricane struck the city early in the morning and reached its greatest strength at 11:05 o'clock.

The tail end of the storm struck Mexico City late in the afternoon. The barometer fell rapidly, but the wind did not reach hurricane velocity.

At 3:30 Tuesday afternoon telegraph communications between Vera Cruz and Mexico City were still disrupted. It was reported that trains were unable to enter Vera Cruz and that they were stopping at Soledad, a station 15 miles west.

Cablegrams from Vera Cruz indicated that no lives had been lost in the hurricane and tidal wave.

The first message was received at 10:30 a. m. and said: "Hurricane blowing now heavily; rain falling; water overflowing office."

At 12:42 p. m. another message was received saying: "Storm over, office conditions unchanged."

Teapot Dome Lease Found Fraudulent By Appeals Court

Instructions Issued for Immediate Cancellation of Mammoth Oil Company's Lease.

DECISION ENJOINS TRESPASS OF LANDS

Opinion Is Received From William S. Kenyon, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, Presiding Judge.

St. Louis, September 28.—(AP)—The United States circuit court of appeals today reversed and remanded the decision of the district court at Cheyenne, Wyo., upholding the Teapot Dome oil lease obtained by Harry F. Sinclair and associates from the government while Albert B. Fall was secretary of the interior.

The decision declares the Sinclair lease to have been fraudulent.

The lower court is instructed to ask the Mammoth Oil company for an accounting of all oil and petroleum products taken from the government's naval oil reserve during its tenure.

The appellate court's decision is sweeping in effect and instructs the lower court immediately to cancel the Mammoth Oil company's lease and enjoin it from further trespassing on government lands.

The opinion was received from William S. Kenyon, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, presiding judge of the appellate court.

Kennedy Is Reversed. The appellate court in its decision—a 65-page document—reverses Judge T. Blake Kennedy, who held in district court at Cheyenne in June, 1925, that the government's allegation of fraud had not been proved. He rejected the government's annual suit and left the Mammoth Oil company in possession of Teapot Dome.

The opinion was concurred in by District Judge Arba S. Van Valkenburgh, of Kansas City, and District Judge W. A. Cant, of Duluth, who sat with Judge Kenyon in hearing the appeal at St. Paul last May.

Teapot Dome Discussion. The opinion declared in part: "Our conclusion is that the government sustained its claim that the lease and contract were procured by fraud and corruption, and that they should be cancelled."

"A trail of deceit, falsehood, subterfuge, but faith and corruption, at times indistinct but nevertheless discernable, runs through the transaction."

WILL ASK LEADING CITIZENS TO SIGN $500,000 IN NOTES

Banks Deny Loan on Technical Grounds, Unless Paper Is Indorsed by Private Individuals.

MUST RAISE FUNDS BEFORE WEEK ENDS

Complete Shutting Down of City Schools, Stopping Studies of 60,000 Children Looms.

Faced with the possibility that the entire educational system of Atlanta may shut down next week, Mayor Walter A. Sims, Tuesday night announced that he will begin this morning a series of conferences with capitalists and leading citizens of the city in an effort to obtain their personal endorsements of notes to raise money to continue operations of the city's schools during the remainder of the year.

Mayor Sims stated that he had a number of men in view whom he would ask to give their personal signatures to notes which will be returned to Atlanta banks. The Atlanta Clearing House association refused Tuesday to lend $500,000 to the schools, which is necessary if they are to operate the rest of the year. The banks agreed, however, to lend the money if proper securities are given.

A last-minute effort to raise the money was made by Mayor Sims and A. J. Orme, chairman of the councilmanic finance committee, who were appointed as a special committee to ask the loan. The banks refused to lend the money on the grounds that the loan would be illegal and that the city would not be liable for repayment if the money is borrowed in anticipation of next year's revenues.

Must Be This Week. Whatever is done to avoid the crisis must be done before the end of this week, as the date for paying September salaries falls next Friday and there are not sufficient funds to meet the requirements. Approximately $26,000 remains in the teachers' fund and $79,000 for paying supervisors and other officials. According to B. Graham West, city comptroller, this money is insufficient.

The $500,000 loan is needed to pay part of the September salaries, which total approximately $210,000, and October, November and December salaries, total salaries for each month amounting to virtually the same as the September total. Dr. E. M. Eubanks, president of the board of education, stated Tuesday night that if the mayor succeeds in negotiating a half million dollar loan, a salary deficit of approximately $200,000 for the year still will remain.

The refusal of banks to lend the

HOTEL MUST PAY TAX, SAYS COURT

The state supreme court Tuesday reaffirmed the decision of Fulton county court in refusing to grant an injunction restraining the city of Atlanta from taxing the leasehold interests of the Henry Grady Hotel company, which are situated on the old governor's mansion property, belonging to the state of Georgia.

Following the decision of Fulton county court, the hotel company carried its case to the supreme court of the state. The latter held that the leasehold interests of the company were subject to municipal taxation through a clause in the contract, and that such rights to levy and collect taxes are included in the provisions of the charter of the city.

The Henry Grady Hotel company leased the property from C. H. Cannon, who in turn leased it from the Massell Realty Improvement company. The latter received its lease from commissioners of the state, who were authorized by the legislature to rent the property.

AUTO BODY PLANS NEW DEPARTMENTS

At a noonday luncheon next Friday, October 1, the sales managers and service managers of the members of the Atlanta Automobile association will hear an address by Captain D. Risley, Jr., sales manager of the Cravener Company of America, Philadelphia, Pa., who has been invited by the board of directors to visit Atlanta and tell the many advantages to be derived from the organization in Atlanta, first, of a sales managers' bureau, and second, of a service managers' bureau.

Each organization will be separate and distinct from the other, the former including only the sales managers, and the latter only service managers. These two new associations will offer an opportunity long needed for the heads of the two departments referred to, to get together regularly and discuss their problems.

Such cities as St. Louis, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit, Baltimore, New York, Rochester and others, are enthusiastic about these new departments. Announcements giving full information on the subject will go out to the members of the association during the week.

SIX PERSONS INJURED IN FREAK ACCIDENTS

Five children and a man were treated Tuesday at Grady hospital for various injuries resulting from accidents around their homes and in the streets.

E. Sanges, of 29 Paynes avenue, the man, had a fracture of the right forearm as the result of being kicked by the crank of a Ford while attempting to start the motor.

Mary Elizabeth Kind, 10, of 354 West Fourteenth street, fell Tuesday and broke her arm in the same place for the second time in four weeks.

Alonso Gunn, 10, fell off a barrel, while playing, and fractured his left elbow.

Clifford Brimer, 11, of 239 Highland avenue, was hit in the head with a skate, suffering a severe laceration above the right eye.

J. G. Addison, 9, stuck a nail in his foot while playing in his back yard.

Randall Rollins, 5, of 71 Capitol avenue, had his hand badly crushed when he stuck it in a cane mill at a syrup plant. He was admitted to the children's ward for treatment.

NAME COMMITTEE TO PLAN REMOVAL OF FIRE STATION

A committee to investigate the tearing down and rebuilding of fire station house No. 5, to allow the extension of Madison avenue, was appointed Tuesday morning at the regular meeting of the fire board. Cost of the work will be nominal but the station house now stands on the proposed street line and must be moved before that section can be opened, it was said at the meeting.

The meeting was devoted largely to routine and no important matters relating to the department were discussed. The meeting adjourned after a short session.

TWO POLICEMEN GET PEN TERMS FOR LIQUOR PLOT

Boston, September 28.—(AP)—An inspector and a sergeant of the Chelsea police force today were fined $700 each and sentenced to 18-month terms in the Atlanta penitentiary for conspiracy to violate federal prohibition laws. The officers were Inspector Thomas Quigley, brother of Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley, of Chelsea, and Sergeant Edward W. Isler.

Barbecue to Mark Start of Carving Job on Mountain

With Governor Clifford Walker and governors of several other southern states, United States Senators William J. Harris and Walter F. George, the twelve Georgia congressmen, city, county officials and more than 100 other distinguished guests present, actual work on the carving of the equestrian figures of Confederate heroes on the precipice of Stone Mountain will start this afternoon at 1 o'clock with a huge barbecue, it was announced Tuesday afternoon.

The carving has been put under way in conformity with a recent contract negotiated between the Stone Mountain Memorial association and the Stone Mountain Granite corporation which will do the work under the direction and supervision of Augustus L. Leman, noted sculptor.

J. J. Haverly, chairman of the construction committee of the association, will have charge of the celebration ceremony this afternoon and it was announced that no particular schedule of set speeches will be carried out, as the entire affair will be informal.

Members of the executive committee of the association will be hosts at the barbecue and will bear all of the expenses personally. Upwards of 200 guests have been invited to be present.

It will require more than two years to complete the figures of Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and a color bearer of the Confederate army, it was stated. A large force of men will be placed on the new work immediately, it was announced Tuesday.

DOOMED SLAYER WILL GO SUNDAY TO DEATH CELL

Macon, Ga., September 28.—(AP)—John Howell will be carried from Bibb county jail to the death cell of the state prison farm at Milledgeville next Sunday morning, Sheriff James R. Hicks said today. He is sentenced to die in the electric chair Tuesday, October 5, for the slaying in May, 1924, of Henry Green, Bibb county deputy.

An appeal for clemency is now pending before Governor Clifford Walker, Judge E. Lee Starnes, who presided at Howell's trial, and ten of the trial jurors, have signed petitions asking that the condemned man's life be spared. A decision in the case is expected during the week.

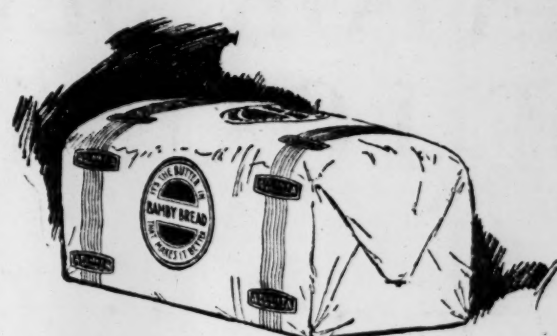

STREET CAR STRIKE ENDS AT ASHEVILLE

Asheville, N. C., September 29.—(AP)—The strike which has tied up street-car service in Asheville since Saturday morning was settled this afternoon. The motormen and conductors who walked out will return to their posts tomorrow morning.

In settlement of the strike the men agreed to meet virtually all conditions contained in a contract offered to them by the company on September 23. Under this contract, it is understood, the wage scale is to remain the same as before the strike, but certain changes with regard to working conditions for the operatives are provided.

WHEN we recently installed our new-type, heat controlled ovens we created a new standard of bread quality in Atlanta. And a new phrase.

"Evenly Baked" means what it says—that every loaf is baked exactly alike, that when you buy Bamby there isn't a chance of you getting an over baked or under baked loaf.

Only in Bamby can you get evenly baked bread—and only by refusing to accept a substitute can you assure yourself of certain quality.

Tuesday saw the opening at Marietta of the Cobb County fair, with the largest number of exhibits in all departments ever shown there and judges are looking over exhibits of every variety of farm and food products and livestock preparatory to awarding prizes this morning. The fair will continue through Thursday.

Exhibits for the women's department were assembled and assigned to booths early Tuesday under direction of Mrs. Herbert Hague, general chairman of the department. The women's exhibit includes exquisite handwork and all varieties of canned fruits and vegetables.

At least 150 hens and roosters, including Rhode Island Reds, White Leghorns, Brahmas, Barred Rocks and many other varieties are represented in the poultry class.

Officials have had a hard time this year in finding sufficient space for the fowl exhibit. One small boy broke into the exhibit today and was found that he had arrived too late to secure space to show the prize hens he had worked for a whole year. The manager of the exhibit finally found a cage and the lad was happy again.

The largest live stock exhibit ever before shown at the Cobb County fair is being displayed. There are approximately 25 head of the finest breeds of hogs, including Berkshires, Duroc Jerseys, Poland Chinas and O. I. C's. Nearly 30 head of cattle have been brought to the fair for exhibit this year and are entered for the prizes. The breeds represented include Guernseys, Jerseys and others.

Followed Hardman's Steps.

"Seventh. We charge that Hardman came out flatfooted for a reorganization of the banking department of Georgia and a change in its laws, which meant a thorough investigation of T. R. Bennett's conduct and his removal if warranted and possible, and that two days later Holder came out for the same things. We charge further that this business of removing or 'kicking out' a department head cannot always be done, and that at one time it was tried when the state audit showed glaring irregularities in the highway department and the governor of the state tried the 'kicking out' process on a man named John Holder, who was that department's head. Therefore, that he could not 'kick out' T. R. Bennett unless his experience in staying in have taught him how to 'kick others out'.

"Ninth. We charge that from now until the day of election you will make many other charges against Dr. Hardman that will be untrue and will be taken back by you and Mr. Holder and will be repudiated as false by the people of Georgia on October 6. We charge that Holder's position on bonds is inconsistent with his former record.

"Eleventh. Finally, we charge that on October 6 the people of Georgia by their votes, will walk into the temple of their fathers, the capitol of their state, and cast those out who unjustly sell and buy in that temple and overthrow the tables of the money changers and destroy the 'dens of thieves,' if they are there.

"What do you say to these charges? Are they true or not true?"

"O. G. PITTMAN, Solicitor General
"Cartersville, Ga., September 28."

CARTOON STYLED "BLOW BELOW BELT"

"Simply another foul blow, delivered purposely below the belt and in violation of the cardinal ethics of true sportsmanship" is the characterization applied to a poster cartoon that is being distributed by the John N. Holder campaign organization in a statement by the Fulton County Hardman campaign committee Tuesday.

"The cartoon," says the Hardman club statement, "is designed to convey the impression, first, that Dr. Hardman was in some manner in league with the influence that contributed to the recent failure of a number of chain banks in Georgia; second, that his sympathies are on the side of interests that may be unfavorable to any interference with the existing plan and administration of the state banking department as opposed to the welfare of citizens who suffered losses by reason of those bank failures.

"Not only is this misleading, but it is a venal and craven appeal to ignorance and prejudice, designed to alienate from Dr. Hardman's candidacy for the governorship the support of the thousands of good Georgia men and women who were depositors in those wrecked banks. It is simply another foul blow, delivered purposely below the belt and in violation of the cardinal ethics of true sportsmanship.

"Of course, everybody who is at all informed knows that Dr. Hardman had had no more to do with the sinking of those chain banks than John Holder had to do with the wrecking of the schooner Hesperus." and everybody who has followed the developments in the present gubernatorial campaign knows that days before John Holder said anything about it Dr. Hardman said publicly that immediately he takes office as governor it is his intention to bring about a complete reorganization of the state banking department and recommend enactment of a new code of regulatory banking laws as will insure the bank depositors the fullest measure of protection that it is possible for state law to provide.

"But this cartoon patently is intended to put anti-Hardman virus into the hearts and minds of Georgia voters who are not informed about what has been said and written by or in behalf of either of the candidates in the present gubernatorial race."

LOG RATE REVISION PETITION PRESSED

The state public service commission Tuesday declined to withdraw its petition now pending before the interstate commerce commission seeking a revision of interstate rates on logs between Georgia and Florida points and at the same time rescinded its order issued April 15 establishing a scale of rates on logs between points within the state of Georgia.

In following this course, the commission intends to fight its case before the interstate commerce commission for an equitable scale of interstate rates between Georgia and Florida shippers, it was announced.

The commission Tuesday rescinded a preliminary order permitting abandonment of the Macon and Birmingham railroad but making the order effective January 1, 1927, under a final order to be issued on that date in event persons seeking to operate the railroad are unable to work out an operative plan by that date.

After a final order is issued by the Georgia commission the matter must be handled by the interstate commerce commission and this delay will give promoters of the operation of the line additional time to work out their plans, it was stated by James A. Perry, chairman of the commission.

FLOGGED BY GANG IN EAST ATLANTA, MAN TELLS POLICE

J. B. Watts, 49, of 229 East Fair street, told the police Tuesday that he had been the victim of a severe flogging Monday night, when six men in automobiles seized him, posing as plainclothes policemen, and took him to a lonely spot on Glenwood road, in East Atlanta, where he was beaten nearly unconscious with a heavy strap.

According to Watts' statement, two men came to his home about 9:30 o'clock Monday night and told him they were under orders to arrest him for vagrancy. Watts, who is a butcher by trade, explained to the men that he was not a vagrant, but had been working up to a few days ago and was expecting to find a new job soon.

"I told them I was a butcher and they said they would let me go if I would go with them to a place where they would let me work," Watts said, "and forced me into a waiting automobile where there were some other rough looking men. They drove out to a lonely spot, made me get out and lie on my face, and then struck about 30 forceful blows with a strap. I was then forced to walk some distance down the road and told if I mentioned the affair to the police that I would go like Bert Donahoe."

Watts said he has been started by police.

James Malone was in charge of the program at the Tuesday session. He introduced Howard Geldert, who explained the work done in the promotion of DeMolay chapters and presented Clement Ford, one of the members of the DeMolay order, who spoke on the purposes and progress of the order.

ABSOLUTE SATISFACTION OR YOUR MONEY BACK

GOVERNMENT ENDS DAUGHERTY CASE

New York, September 28.—After the government had rested its case Tuesday in the $441,000 graft conspiracy trial of Harry M. Daugherty and Colonel Thomas W. Miller, defense counsel moved to dismiss the indictments.

Judge Julian W. Mack, in whose chambers the motions were argued, said he would pass upon the motion Wednesday.

It was the fifth time that Max D. Steuer, Daugherty's attorney, had attempted to divorce his client of the charge that he had conspired against the government in permitting the return of the American Metal company's $7,000,000 assets to German-controlled Swiss clients. It was Colonel William T. Rand's first motion in behalf of Miller, the former alien property custodian.

Claim Case Not Proved.

Each defense attorney argued that the government had failed to connect its client with the case or to prove its charges that the pair conspired with the late John T. King, republican national committeeman from Connecticut, to expedite the return.

Judge Mack excused the jury shortly after the government had rested, warning the members to read no newspapers and to discuss the trial with no one.

When United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner finished his case for the government, he had presented evidence to show the disposition of all but $5,000 of the $291,000 in Liberty bonds alleged to have been received by King from Richard Merton, the German industrialist. The remainder of the $441,000, it was testified, was given King in the form of a check for $300,000.

The government failed to trace any of the money directly to Daugherty. It introduced evidence to show that Miller or his friends had received about $20,000 of the Liberty bonds. The only evidence involving Daugherty was that which purported to show that some of the money had been deposited in the Midland National bank of Washington Court House, Ohio, of which Mal S. Daugherty, his brother, is president.

Merton, who was on the stand for three days at the outset of the trial, was cross-examined Tuesday by Steuer.

When the questioning was finished, Buckner said:

"We have decided to let you go back to Europe."

"Thank you," Merton said.

He announced he would sail immediately.

Merton had been subjected to a detailed examination concerning the

NEGRO CONFESSES TUMLIN MURDER

on the morning of September 14, the negro boarded a river car and got off near the end of the line, he stated. His movements from this point, where he slept under a tree during the night, and the direction he took in going to the Tumlin home, were thoroughly gone over again Tuesday by the negro in custody of the police.

Reaching the Tumlin home just as dawn was breaking, he went to a window of a room in which he knew that James Tumlin, a brother of the dead woman, slept. He waited behind a tree in the yard until he thought that Tumlin had reported for work as foreman of the convict gang. He then went to the window and peeped through. He could not see whether Tumlin was in his bed, so slipping through the window, he crawled to the bedside and felt over the bed cautiously and found that it was not occupied. He pointed out the window to the police and repeated his action for their benefit.

Struggled With Woman.

From Tumlin's room he crossed into the room occupied by Miss Tumlin. She was asleep when he entered and had a blanket pulled up around her head so he made a leap at her. She cried to strong for the negro as she jumped from the bed and a struggle in the room ensued.

He pulled her toward the trunk, where he knew that the money was kept and threw the trunk top open. Feeling for the money his hands felt a hard substance which proved to be a lock. With this weapon he struck her several times across the head and face, he said.

When she fell to the floor he pushed her toward the foot of the bed, which he held and raised one of the bed legs and threw it on her back to hold her still while he could ransom the trunk for the money, he said.

From the possession of Miss Tumlin he went through the house searching for the money but did not go into the kitchen, he told the officers, daylight was then coming and the negro left the premises, but emphatically declares that he took nothing from the house.

Seen in Vicinity.

Since the day of the murder, Captain J. C. Oliver, Lieutenant A. Tom Butler and Patrolmen Charlie Lyle, Cal Bates, Tom Davis, Bob Hughes and A. A. Stovall, of the county police force, have left no stone unturned in trying to bring the murderer to the bar of justice.

The search for Johnson was instituted after county convict guards reported that the negro had been seen

Clemenceau at Age of 85 Talks to His Bronze Dogs

He explained that one of the dogs, which holds a roll of paper between his teeth, represents science. The other, according to Clemenceau, has a gold ring in his muzzle and he represents wealth.

"When I need science I address myself to the first one," he said, "and when I need money I turn to the second. And they always give me complete satisfaction."

The aged statesman refused to change his daily routine. At 5 o'clock he was up in the gray dawn of a windy morning and all morning long he pored over his garden, making his plants ready for a rigorous Atlantic winter. He said he had decided to prolong his vacation until October 15 in order that he might feel sure that his garden was in the best of shape. When he leaves here he will return to Paris.

plans to avoid a repetition of duplication of strikes, should the second hurricane strike Miami as predicted. All cities and towns were prepared for any and all necessities and there is an abundance of food and money should another emergency arise.

LITTLE LOSS OF LIFE; HOUSES BLOWN OVER.

Galveston, Texas, September 28.—Vera Cruz reports say that there has been little if any loss of life in the storm which struck that city Tuesday.

Property damage is estimated at about $250,000. Many houses were blown off their foundations and there has been considerable loss of small shipping.

LITTLE DANGER SEEN FOR AMERICAN CITIES.

Washington, September 28.—(AP)—Looking for relief from the threat of a Vera Cruz hurricane as a culmination of a threatening disturbance which struck several days ago in the Western Caribbean.

Advices received subsequently have contained no indication of its development into a full-fledged hurricane, but it has gained force and their deduction that it is the storm which hit Vera Cruz today is correct, they see in a little danger for American cities in the mountains west of the Mexican port.

Was No Surprise.

News of the storm came as no surprise to the local experts, despite the fact that this region seldom is afflicted with hurricanes, the steamer Marzan having reported a wind of 42 miles an hour in the Gulf of Mexico.

In a message received this morning, no other observations in Mexico or nearby waters today have been reported to the bureau.

Another hurricane of peculiar character, which passed over the Azores yesterday and last night, was reported to have struck the Cape Verde islands, but took an unusual course northward instead of following the usual route toward the United States.

Indications of a third tropical disturbance of undetermined intensity several hundred miles north of Porto Rico also were reported today by the bureau in an advisory storm warning issued at 10 a. m. It was thought to be moving northward or west-northward.

The current storm season, bureau officials remarked tonight, has produced an unusual number of these disturbances.

Weather Bureau Tonight Issued the Following:

"Advisory: 9:30 p. m. No reports received from vicinity of tropical disturbance in the Atlantic Ocean, west of several hundred miles north-northwest of Porto Rico. Reports from the steamer Marzan about 100 miles northwest of Vera Cruz indicate a tropical storm of considerable intensity was central this morning near a Cruz. It has probably moved inland over Mexico."

COOLIDGE FORCES CHANGE IN ISSUE

will organize the senate and the house to support the president's position on Coolidge because the people have undiminished confidence in President Coolidge and believe that he should be supported in the next two years by a majority in congress which will help him maintain the most abundant prosperity the country has known under a republican president.

This shifts the emphasis around and gets away from the subject matter that Coolidge is the issue. President Coolidge's idea has been to give republican candidates what general benefit has been the result of his administration.

But he does not wish to be placed in the position of being personally the issue in a campaign in which he is not a candidate. He recalls Wilson's disastrous appeal for a vote of confidence in 1918.

To do so would be to assume the responsibility of all of the acts of the republicans in the last congress. This he does not care to do for, throughout his tenure in the white house, President Coolidge has repeatedly emphasized his belief in the separation of the executive and congress and he has been scrupulous in keeping his hands off of legislative matters. His basic theory has been that he would run the white house and the republicans in congress would run congress. He has adhered to that theory at times when his party leadership in congress begged him to exert his influence on legislation.

Doesn't Want to Be Issue.

That being the case, he does not feel that it is logical or fair to make him the issue in the reelection of senators and congressmen, many of whom have not hesitated to vote against him on such vital questions as the world court and farm relief.

Coolidge has handled this current incident with his usual tact and has smoothed it over gracefully through a dinner conference where some more irrepressible differences have been ironed out in a public display of dramatics. His handling of it is typical of the smoothness with which he carries on his political activity.

PARTY SPOKESMEN EXCHANGE BROADSIDES.

Washington, September 28.—(AP)—Spokesmen for the republican and democratic senatorial campaign committees today again exchanged verbal broadsides over issues to be settled in the November election.

While Chairman Phillips of the republican group, asserted that "prosperity was the paramount issue and that the administration would stand on it, Senator Bayard of the demo-tions incident to and surrounding the making of this lease. It should not receive the approval of the court.

TEAPOT DOME LEASE IS FRAUDULENT

There is no corruption in this case as to any officers of the government except Albert E. Fall. It has been the theory of the government that former Secretary Fall received from Harry F. Sinclair, organizer and owner of the Mammoth oil company, a pecuniary consideration which influenced him to grant the company a lease for Teapot Dome.

Grave Charges Made.

"Counsel for the United States charged that Sinclair received as dividends from the Continental Trading Company, Ltd., of Ontario, Canada, $230,500 face value of Liberty bonds, which he turned over to Fall as a bribe. His charge is as grave and serious an accusation as could be made against a public official, augmented by the fact that this official so charged was in a sense the trustee for the public lands of the United States of its public lands.

The case is one, therefore, in which not only the rights of the United States are involved, but the rights of the public at large are involved.

The entire transaction is tainted with corruption, collusion and fraud, and the proper and lawful functions of the government. Nothing is so essential to the perpetuity of a representative government as fidelity of public officials.

The opinion also stated that "it is of vital importance that government be drained away for the benefit of private enterprises, but that it shall be preserved in the interest of the national defense."

Appellate Court Listed Exceptions to the findings of the lower court, as set out by Special Prosecutors Pomerooy and Roberts in three groups, as follows:

"First, was there authority of law to make the lease of April 7, 1922, and the supplemental agreement of February 9, 1923, to the Mammoth Oil company and were they in accordance with law?"

"Second, were the lease and agreement of Secretary Denby, but in political thought we are as far apart as the two poles. Senator Wadsworth believes does not represent the real feeling of the people of the state. We differ in the matter of government. I believe in a human government and I want you to know how satisfied and pleased I am in the nomination of Mr. Wagner for United States senator."

BONE DRY DELEGATES REFUSE TO AID MILLS.

By Arthur Sears Henning.

New York, September 28.—With the bone-dry members of the party in open revolt the New York republican state convention ended today with the nomination of a wet ticket headed by Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., candidate for reelection, and Representative Ogden Mills, candidate for governor.

The prohibition revolt, as represented in the convention membership, was of negligible proportions and the regular party platform was what it amounted to at the polls. The bone dries who have put up for independent candidates against Wadsworth in the convention commanded so slender a backing of delegates that they did not even place him in nomination. Wadsworth was the only name presented and out of 1,317 votes in the convention he received 1,238. There were only 79 votes for the independent delegates being recorded as not voting and one voting for Charles E. Hughes.

Only Name Presented.

The name of Congressman Mills was the only one presented for nomination for governor and he received the votes of all the delegates but 35, who were reported as not voting.

The Christian democrat delegates, who would not consider themselves bound by the nomination of Wadsworth, were immediately flocked to the Hotel Imperial, where the Rev. S. E. Nicholson, temporarily detached from the Anti-Saloon league, is directing the Christian campaign to beat the prohibition ticket.

Nicholson, who led the dry opposition in the convention, announced that he would support Wadsworth and the rest of the ticket.

The regular republican leaders are counting on so resolute an outcome. They will be satisfied if they can elect the republican party sufficiently to compass the election of Justice Brandeis, whom the democrats have nominated to oppose Wadsworth. Of course, Wagner is as wet as Wadsworth, but that is not worrying Dr. Nicholson and his fellow bone dries. The election of Wagner would mean the political destruction of Wadsworth.

WOMAN WILL REFUSE ANNUITY FROM DUKE

London, September 28.—Mrs. Violet Jarrett, who was left an annuity of $20,000 under the will of the Duke of Orleans, announced that she will refuse the bequest. She has expressed a desire that the money be used to maintain the duke's natural history museum.

Widow in "Choir" Mystery Assails Tactics of State laughing. But now and then, just for a moment, a wistful sadness came over this widow of the murdered clergyman.

"I wish," Mrs. Hall said, "that the newspapers wouldn't print that terribly unattractive picture of me they insist on using."

Then she chuckled and added: "Oh, well, I don't mind. I don't pay any attention to the newspapers, any way. I have dodged publicity all my life, and it is very dreadful to be so famous."

Asked if she would take the witness stand in her own behalf, Mrs. Hall's eyes narrowed.

"I do not know," she said. "If my lawyers say I ought to do so I will. But it is not a pleasant prospect."

"What are you going to do after your trial if you are acquitted?" she was asked, and with flashing eyes she replied:

"I may move away. I have come to the conclusion that New Jersey is no place for a decent person to live."

She took a fling also at the tactics of Senator Alexander Simpson, special Hall-Mills prosecutor, declaring he had conducted "no real investigation."

"I am surprised," she said, laughing again, "that they have not issued a blanket warrant for the whole family."

During the 15-mile journey she had made from New Brunswick, she had been invited to ride with her. Some of her questions she parried smartly. Some she answered with a naive frankness. Most of the time she was fall campaign. The first gun in this attack was fired last night by the temporary chairman of the convention, Franklin D. Roosevelt, who devoted a large part of his keynote speech to a denunciation of Senator Wadsworth's official record. The second blast was contained in the party platform, which declared the senior senator was not representative of the progressivism of the state and its people; that his attitude toward prohibition was hypocritical and not in good faith; that his legislative record stamped him as reflecting the position that government protection is intended only for "big business and great wealth," and that he had been a "bribe taker."

Following the girl's death, police said the charges against Murphy and Fitzpatrick, who are in Tombs prison, were changed to homicide.

fall campaign. The first gun in this attack was fired last night by the temporary chairman of the convention, Franklin D. Roosevelt, who devoted a large part of his keynote speech to a denunciation of Senator Wadsworth's official record. The second blast was contained in the party platform, which declared the senior senator was not representative of the progressivism of the state and its people; that his attitude toward prohibition was hypocritical and not in good faith; that his legislative record stamped him as reflecting the position that government protection is intended only for "big business and great wealth," and that he had been a "bribe taker."

evening newspapers carried warnings of a second West Indian hurricane, which government forecasters said was headed toward Miami from a source near that of the last one from which this district now is recovering.

City officials, including Chief of Police H. Leslie Quinn, and City Manager Frank H. Wharton, issued statements which calmed the populace. Despite reassuring statements that the forecasted hurricane possibly might not again strike the devastated area, scores of persons made preparations to leave the city.

City officials also showed their apprehension and immediately laid plans to protect life and property. Crowds of the anxious, including women and children, flocked to newspaper offices to read latest bulletins issued by the Weather Bureau and the United States Army and Navy.

Hardman Victory Seen As "Rebuke" to Holder In Statement by Chamlee

Hardman's Manager Says
Holder's Attack Will Arouse Voters to Hard-man's Cause.

A sweeping victory for Dr. L. G. Hardman in the gubernatorial run-off was predicted at Hardman headquarters in a statement to the public Tuesday.

"Complete refutation of rabid charges by Mr. Holder and the fact that his slanderous attack on Dr. Hardman has aroused direct people of this state will bring to Dr. Hardman's defense an overwhelming majority of voters," in the opinion of Alex S. Chamlee, Hardman's campaign manager.

"Mr. Holder failed at the outset when he decided to hang on to his job and the salary of the state highway chairmanship rather than resign and take his chances with the people. He failed again when he broadcast empty promises, and he aroused the indignation of tax payers generally when he went into scores of counties to promise highway road help, promising each county the same thing and exacting in return that its voters support him for governor. Mr. Holder failed miserably, terribly, when he tried to lead people of this state believe that Dr. Hardman had traded the highway post to Governor Walker. But Mr. Holder's biggest flop came when he slandered and attacked the personal life of Dr. Hardman at the bidding of his glib campaign managers," the statement continued.

Sees "Hand-Writing."

"Georgia has long ago seen the handwriting of the Brown Holder machine. Its fearful operations have brought only poverty, while millions in tax money has slipped through the fingers of this machine, wasted, thrown away and without doing the state any good. Voters called a halt on this system in the primary when the machine was wrecked, when Brown was defeated and when Holder ran and in the governor's race. Holder tried hard to sever the connection during the race, but folks who read and can see what is going on will not take the last minute conversion every time.

"Mr. Holder is running under the crack of the machine's whip, lashed at every turn and one speech after another written for him at his headquarters and sent wherever he happens to be to be repeated there. The inconsistency of his charges, his attacks, his speeches is too apparent to avail much.

"Dr. Hardman has lived in Georgia all his life and knows what the state needs. He is a competent business man, a successful business man, and the affairs of this state are similar to the average business.

"Economy must be practiced, care must be used in spending money and the will of the people must be obeyed. Dr. Hardman will do these things, as every one knows.

Hardman's Promises.

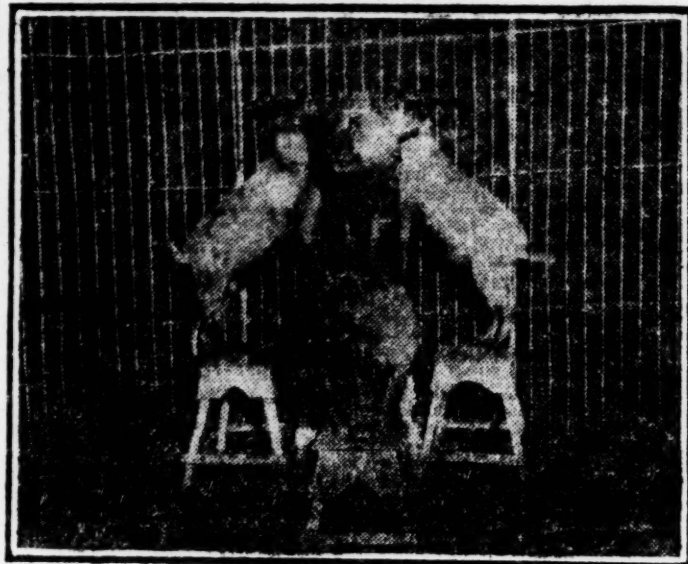

"Dr. Hardman is not in favor of road bond issues; he is opposed to higher gasoline tax; he is opposed to waste and extravagance; he believes every department of this state should function 100 per cent for the people and when he is governor the state cannot will be rid of its parasites and blood-suckers. The banking department, the agricultural department, the highway department and every other department that is not giving value received in its work must be thoroughly cleaned up.

People "Suspicious."

"Mr. Holder should have quit his job before now and gone before the people unshackled and free with the issues of the race. The fact that he has not done so earlier leaves something the average person cannot quite understand.

"With only a few days before the second primary, Dr. Hardman's friends over the state are continuing to assure headquarters of big votes in all Sections of the state. The people are with Dr. Hardman because he is with the people and has never been aligned with machine politics.

"The day is nearing when Georgians will take their own affairs into their own hands and let Georgia resume its progress as free of ring rule and machines."

fewer starts and stops

One of the reasons for Kelvinator's Longer Life

In practical service there's less wear on a Kelvinator in a day than there is on other systems in four days. Naturally Kelvinator lasts much longer.

Wear can be determined pretty accurately by the frequency of starts and stops. Kelvinator has reduced these to a minimum by using a "storage tank"—a reservoir of cold that chills the refrigerator for several hours after each period of motor operation.

These charts are the results of tests run by the associated Edison Companies, the engineering body of the National Electric Light Association, in their 1925 report. They tell the story. Number 1 shows the action of Kelvinator; number 2 that of another system not using the storage tank. Each "saw tooth" in chart No. 2 means a start and stop. More than four times as many are shown as on the Kelvinator chart. This may seem technical, but it means the years of satisfaction you regard as vital.

Kelvinator has other equally important features of superiority that we urge you to investigate before buying any electric refrigeration. We invite you to call and learn about them.

ROME MAY INSTALL BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM

The Constitution Bureau, Rome, Ga., September 28.—(Special.)—Estimates have been made by the city of Rome, Ga., that the block signal system similar to that in use in Atlanta, Chattanooga, Huntsville, Anniston and a number of other cities in this section.

The need of such an organized traffic system for Rome has been demonstrated by its ever-increasing automobile traffic, especially in the late afternoon and early night. Members of the police department are coping with the traffic situation as best they can, but it has been stated that immediate steps must be taken either to increase the force or make other provisions.

With this in view the matter has been brought to the attention of the city commission and a committee composed of W. J. Jones, representative of the fifth ward, and Horace Taylor, chief of the fire department, has been named to look into the matter.

Funeral services for John C. Foster, who died Sunday, were held Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at First Baptist Church, Dr. J. E. Sammons, pastor of the church, and the Rev. A. F. Garner, of Rockmart, conducted the services. Interment was in Myrtle Hill cemetery.

Mr. Foster was 71 years of age and had lived in Floyd county all his life. He was active in civic and religious affairs. He represented Floyd county in the legislature three terms, serving his last term in 1914. For two years, from 1912 to 1913, he was chairman of the board of roads and revenue, during which time the present courthouse was built.

Mr. Foster was a member of the Baptist church and was chairman of the Floyd County Baptist executive committee.

A modern six-room school is being constructed in the Spring Creek district, which probably will be completed by October 25, when county schools begin their regular sessions. In addition to six class rooms the new school will have a large auditorium. The new school is being built with proceeds from the sale of a $50,000 bond issue, which was voted last fall.

The new consolidated school in the Glenwood district, which is being built by public subscription, is nearing completion. Glenwood, Warren, Jones and Central Grove schools have been consolidated since last year, and the new building is located in the Glenwood district, on old Dalton road. Dr. L. L. Moore is principal of Glenwood and Professor W. J. Moore is head of the Spring Creek school.

Scalding Water Killed, Didn't Wake Lover Husband

New York, September 28.—Held without bail on a charge of murdering her husband by pouring scalding water on him while he slept, Mrs. Mary Casazza, mother of four children, explained to the judge that her husband loafed.

"He wouldn't get up to help support his family and he beat me often," she said. "But I never intended to hurt him badly, just to wake him up."

"Have you seen that woman since?" District Attorney A. Keyes asked while in her chair 15 feet from her accuser. Mrs. McPherson permitted her chin to drop.

The courtroom settled back for what proved to be a brief relaxation when Benedict said: "I couldn't recognize her, because the woman I met was wearing goggles."

Benedict then described his meeting with the Carmel woman. He said he was working in the garden of the cottage when Ormiston came out of the house and said he wanted Benedict to meet his wife.

Benedict said the radio man returned to the cottage and came back in about five minutes with a woman who wore a hat pulled far down over her head, meeting her goggles in front.

He said it preceded any chance of facial or feature identification and said he judged the woman was about five feet, seven inches in height, of stock build, and weighing about 140 pounds.

"Have you seen Aimee Semple McPherson since?" asked the district attorney. When the witness, the most important so far in the case, answered in the affirmative, the district attorney asked him, "How does she compare with the woman at Carmel?"

"Very similar," was the reply. "The ankles were very similar in general appearance."

He then explained that his attention had been directed to the Carmel woman's ankles as she walked to the house with Ormiston, because "he had heard there were from New York and he was curious to hear a New York city woman negotiate the stepping stones in the garden."

The bathing suit testimony is considered the most important bit of evidence offered in the trial to date. Benedict testified that when he saw it, the suit was still wet and dripping on the clothesline.

This was 12 hours after Mrs. McPherson disappeared at the Venice beach.

Enterers Identified the evangelist Monday as the woman seen with Ormiston at the art colony but she entered court again today smiling and composed.

"I am not worried about the outcome of the case," she said. "The world will soon find out that I am not guilty of these charges."

Despite the attack made in open court, the evangelist has apparently lost none of her tremendous following. For Angelus temple was again filled to overflowing when she spoke Monday night. She had no suggestion that it looked like the witnesses had been schooled for five months and declared she was the victim of a "frame-up" engineered by the district attorney.

DEATH THREAT SENT IN McPHERSON CASE

picture of Kenneth G. Ormiston, radio man who admitted in an affidavit that he occupied the cottage with a "Miss X."

Defense Scores Again.

The defense scored again when Jesse Lynch Williams, a Western Union messenger boy, who delivered a telegram to "Mrs. McIntyre" at the Carmel cottage, failed to identify Mrs. McPherson as the same woman. He was asked to look around the courtroom and pick out the "Mrs. McIntyre."

Williams said he did not recognize her. William Mack, Carmel landowner, said he had never seen a woman on the hangings but identified "George McIntyre" as Ormiston. He said the only clothing he took to the laundry was a pair of trousers, a bath towel and pillow cases.

Saw Green Bathing Suit.

Medical testified that he saw a green bathing suit hanging on the clothes line at one time while he was working next door. The green bathing suit is considered an important link in the chain of evidence as Mrs. McPherson wore one of that color on the day of her disappearance from the beach, May 18.

Ernest Renkert, Carmel woodcutter, took the stand late Tuesday and declared he was positive Mrs. McPherson was the woman he saw with Ormiston when he delivered a load of wood at the Carmel cottage.

"How is it that you looked at this woman you saw Mrs. McPherson?" asked W. L. Gilbert, attorney for the state. "You were unloading wood, weren't you?"

The witness grinned sheepishly and said, "Oh, whenever I see a woman, I always look at her."

John Considine, carpenter, who claims to have witnessed several love-making scenes in the back yard of the "love nest," was scheduled to be called later.

Same Bathing Suit.

Howard C. Benedict, owner of the Carmel "love cottage," also testified that he had seen a green bathing suit on the clothesline at his cottage the day after Ormiston and his companion moved in.

Benedict held the stand for more than two hours. He told of a flower planting trip he made which was supposed to be for the benefit of the Red Cross, but he admitted that he and Ormiston and then identified books of a religious and philosophical nature as those left by his tenants.

"Have you seen that woman since?" District Attorney A. Keyes asked while in her chair 15 feet from her accuser. Mrs. McPherson permitted her chin to drop.

The courtroom settled back for what proved to be a brief relaxation when Benedict said: "I couldn't recognize her, because the woman I met was wearing goggles."

Benedict then described his meeting with the Carmel woman. He said he was working in the garden of the cottage when Ormiston came out of the house and said he wanted Benedict to meet his wife.

Benedict said the radio man returned to the cottage and came back in about five minutes with a woman who wore a hat pulled far down over her head, meeting her goggles in front.

He said it preceded any chance of facial or feature identification and said he judged the woman was about five feet, seven inches in height, of stock build, and weighing about 140 pounds.

WEEKS WORKS TO KEEP CITY SCHOOLS OPEN

money was actually made two years ago, Mayor Sims stated Tuesday afternoon, when the association agreed to finance the schools through that year but denied firmly that this would not be done again.

Views of Bankers.

A resolution was passed by the Clearing House association asking that city schools be divorced from the city government and special levies be levied to care of the deficit. This measure failed.

Of many suggestions made by school and city officials it was agreed Tuesday that personal endorsement by citizens would be probable. The board of education meets Thursday afternoon but Dr. Eubanks said Tuesday that insofar as he knew the matter would not be discussed.

Position of Board.

"We have done everything possible to avert such a situation," he declared, "and there is nothing that we can do now. The board of education gave city council ample notice that the funds available at the first of the year would not be sufficient but no effort was made to change the condition."

"The board has done everything in its power to keep this city in the black and it is now a matter for city council to settle. Unless this is done it means school closure."

The city school system gets 26 per cent of the city's revenue each year for operation and maintenance of the schools and this amount is not sufficient to pay teachers and officials within the past three years, $152,000 has been spent for capital outlay. Buildings and equipment. The Atlanta school system cannot be operated on its present income and city council must provide some means for the remainder of the year, if we operate the schools."

A summary of school finances as announced by school officials Tuesday shows that a deficit of $124,214.21 was shown at the end of the year. Of this amount $526,492.52 was carried into this year's expense from last year's deficit. Items included in this list were, November, 1925, payroll, $100,020.50; December, 1925, payroll, $100,404.71; 1925 bills paid in 1926, $26,940.40, and a revenue of $2,985,707.01 was received.

The belief that the initiative in obtaining a loan for the schools must be stated by the finance committee of city council was expressed Tuesday. Mr. Orme stated that nothing could be done by the finance committee since schools were not operated within the amount of money allotted to them at the first of the year.

D. Hoffman, chairman of the current expenditures committee of the board of education, was that all city teachers sign a collective note and stand personally responsible for all bills drawn by them until January 1, 1927. He expressed the belief that the Clearing House association would lend money under this method.

Affect 60,000 Children.

Mr. Hoffman said Tuesday that if the decision of bankers in refusing to loan the city $500,000 forced schools to close, studies of approximately 60,000 children would be interrupted.

"We may as well face the facts," Mr. Hoffman said. "We are facing a crisis that only a half-million dollars will relieve and the problem we face is to get the money. Bankers refuse to make us a loan on anticipated revenues of 1927 and we are unable to pay teachers' salaries for the next two months."

The 26 per cent of the city's income is insufficient to carry on the school program. The program really should have 29 per cent of the city under our budget for 1926, $2,700,000. Necessary expenses and salaries in addition to maintenance, amounts to $2,400,000, leaving $300,000 for maintenance and capital expenditures.

When the 1926 budget was made and we were unable to get more than the 26 per cent provided for under the present law, we had to make up the $300,000 deficit brought over from last year from our budget for this year. Thus, the board started off in the hole to the amount of half a million dollars in round numbers.

To Skip Through.

"In order to take care of actual needs for the remainder of this year, we should have $800,000, but if the city can give us $500,000, we will cut corners here and there and skip through somehow. After salaries are paid we will have only $125,000 for maintenance for the balance of 1926, $2,400,000 to $2,400,000, leaving $200,000 for maintenance and capital expenditures."

Mr. Hoffman pointed out that over a period of the past five years, repairs, upkeep of buildings and erection of portable schools necessitated care for the school attendance has required an expenditure of $900,000 in round figures. "This money the city has promised to pay us, because the amount has come out of our budget and went for items not listed in the budget," Mr. Hoffman stated that the city had not repaid this amount.

Mr. Hoffman also declared that the city charter should be revised at the next session of the legislature so as to provide for a board of education of five members, to be named by the city at large, with no "ward or sectional lines." This board's power should be so clearly defined that each and every member "would know his exact duties and could be held directly responsible for his part."

The committee chairman referred to R. R. Ritchie, assistant school superintendent, in glowing terms. "He is a business man and a business man is needed," Mr. Hoffman said. "He should be given full responsibilities and should not be held strictly accountable."

Defining of authority and power and tightening of the present system was urged as a remedy for present evils.

"The schools should have a school tax of so many mills for support based on budgeted expenses," Mr. Hoffman said.

MICHIGAN G. O. P. WRECKSMACHINE

Detroit, September 28.—(AP)—The political machine of Governor Alex J. Groesbeck was wrecked today, while 300 policemen kept Groesbeck supporters from even a glimpse of the catastrophe.

It was a jubilant destruction of a machine that has been driven in triumph through Michigan republicanism for nearly six years. As uniformed officers stood outside, Groesbeck supporters were kept at bay by a line of 403 Wayne county supporters of the governor, 888 delegates from other state cities and towns were inside, loudly acclaiming Groesbeck's nomination for governor, and nominating in its entirety a Green-backed slate of candidates for minor state offices.

For two years the Groesbeck machine has given signs of collapse, losing an essential part here and there, yet continuing to lead the way for Michigan republicanism. The end was believed to have come two weeks ago when Mayor Fred W. Green, of Ionia, swamped Groesbeck in a two-man race for the nomination for governor; but the machine showed signs of rejuvenation a week ago when it caused disruption of the Wayne county convention.

Today, however, saw the end. There was no crash—just a sudden collapse of the entire machine. Groesbeck supporters had no voice in a convention dominated by Mayor Green and his allies. The entire Green slate for minor state offices was nominated without any serious attempt by the Groesbeck machine to prevent it.

Wayne county (Detroit), which ordinarily has one-third of the voting strength in the state convention, had nothing to say today. The convention, faced with demands to seat both a Green and Groesbeck delegation, turned thumbs down on both, and passed a resolution of disavowal of business without the assistance of Detroit republican representatives.

LOCAL RUNOVER PRIMARY TUESDAY

are Murphy M. Holloway and Thomas H. Goodwin, candidates for recorder of deeds and clerk of the court, respectively. Howard C. McCutcheon and J. W. Weaver, candidates for councilman from the second ward, and Roy D. Gault, Jr., candidate for councilman from the tenth ward. Of these only one, Mr. Goodwin, had paid his entrance fee Tuesday night, Mr. Laney announced.

Cecil G. Allen, candidate for alderman from the second ward, and E. C. Morris, candidate for councilman from the fifth, both of whom were defeated in the recent primary election, filed protests of the election, and Mr. Morris declared that he declared the nominee for the place. Neither of the protests was discussed, a motion being made and carried to file both.

There was a set out in his petition that there was illegal voting in the second ward and that many qualified voters had been denied an opportunity to vote in their wards. His protest and that filed by Mr. Morris was similar to ones filed by them at the first meeting of the executive committee after the primary. Both were dismissed at that time, and their opponents, who were elected by a small majority, were declared nominees.

Charges Illegal Counting.

Mr. Morris claimed that 20 voters in his ward who had not paid their taxes had voted in the recent primary. He also charged that 20 voters in his ward were kept at the booths and that ballots were not counted legally.

An effort to keep city employees from acting as managers or helpers at the polls in future elections was made at the meeting Tuesday. The resolution was referred to the rules committee.

The date set for the run-over election was made, according to Mr. Laney, in an effort to save expense. Rules of the committee will not allow the run-over to be held concurrent with the run-over election for governor and the date was placed on the day before the state run-over so that the booths can be rented for two days and will not require reheating.

Jury Begins Probe.

A special session of the Fulton county grand jury was called for Thursday morning at 10 o'clock by Solicitor General John A. Boykin to continue the probe into the alleged irregularities at the primary.

The primary, which were laid before the solicitor by Cecil G. Allen, defeated by a margin of three votes in the city primary for alderman of the fourth ward.

Mr. Allen conferred at length with Solicitor Boykin Monday afternoon and discussed the outlandishness of the probe into the city primary, which resulted in the matter being brought to the grand jury's attention Tuesday by the solicitor.

Approximately 15 affidavits signed by registered voters of the city charging irregularities in the election were carried into the jury room by the solicitor, who said that the jury began its investigation Tuesday. The affidavits were turned over to Solicitor Boykin by Mr. Allen.

Among the charges set out by the defeated alderman candidate were: that two members of the subcommittee solicited votes at the polls; that city employees were acting in their work and were soliciting votes; that rural citizens were brought into the city and allowed to vote; that poll managers counted the votes behind closed doors, and that voters who were registered were not allowed to cast their ballots when poll managers ascertained that they were going to vote for Mr. Allen.

GASTON DEMANDS DRY LAW REPEAL

Boston, September 28.—(AP)—Repeal of the prohibition law and enactment of a system of regulation for the sale of liquor were urged by Colonel William A. Gaston, democratic nominee for governor of Massachusetts in his acceptance speech before the democratic state convention tonight.

"The most vital, most immediate of all questions and programs confronting the people is that of prohibition," Colonel Gaston asserted. "It cannot be set aside; it must be met; and every candidate on every ballot in this election must come out in the open and state plainly where he stands. There must be no dodging and no evasion; and this election must be made a solemn referendum, so that the voice and verdict of this commonwealth may go thundering down to Washington."

Colonel Gaston asserted that prohibition had utterly failed to prohibit, and that crime, immorality and lawlessness had grown out of the paralysis of the law.

He declared, however, he was opposed to the return of the liquor saloon, and favored instead "some reasonable plan of regulation and restriction, akin to the systems of Sweden and Quebec. But, until the Volstead law is repealed, it must be enforced."

Speaking as temporary chairman, Andrew O. Peters, former mayor of Boston, denounced encroachment of the federal government upon the rights of states.

TWO FOUND GUILTY OF AUTO LARCENIES

Charlie Hawkins and Paul Miller, white youths, were found guilty by a jury in Fulton superior court Tuesday in three cases of stealing automobiles and were sentenced to serve from three to five years each on the changing.

They were given sentences of from 3 to 5 years in each case to run concurrently. It was alleged that they stole automobiles, the property of A. S. Spinks, of 327 Woodward avenue; Edgar Boyer, of Bennettsville, S. C.; and Roy G. Booker, of 425 Candler Annex.

Four men held after alleged shooting in car.

After chasing a speeding automobile several blocks on East Fair street and hearing what they believed to be five shots fired from within the car, Mobile Officers Hane and Richardson arrested four men early Tuesday night, three of whom are held under charges of suspicion while a fourth was charged with reckless driving and speeding.

C. L. Clafflin, of 311 Cape street; Dan Lee, of 511 Peoples street, and C. H. Haskins, of 517 Griffin street, are being held under a charge of suspicion pending an investigation. They are said to have been firing shots. H. W. Gardner, of 165 Forrest avenue, is charged with reckless driving and speeding.

PIKE COUNTY FARMER DIES AT WILLIAMSON

Griffin, Ga., September 28.—(Special.)—Francis Royan Bottoms, prominent Pike county farmer, died late Monday night at his home near Williamson. He had been ill for several weeks. In addition to his widow, Mrs. Francis Wilson Bottoms, he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. R. L. Davis and Mrs. A. R. Buchanan, of Williamson, and Miss Lucy Bottoms, of Mullins, S. C.; six sons, J. S. E. R. H. and R. B. Bottoms, all of Williamson; one sister, Mrs. Sara Murphy, of Fayetteville; and two brothers, W. A. Bottoms, of Concord, and W. O. Bottoms, of Fayetteville. Funeral arrangements will be announced after the arrival of his son from Florida.

WOMAN IS TREATED AFTER POISON DOSE

Mrs. W. O. Cantrell, of Rutherford, N. C., who has been staying at 56 West Baker street for the past several days, was treated at Grady hospital Tuesday night after she told doctors she took a quantity of bichloride of mercury tablets in her room in an attempt to end her life. She did not give any reason for her act, and after the first aid treatment it was stated that she had a good chance to recover. Her husband is stationed at Fort McPherson where he is taking a sword army training course, it was understood.

PLAYING ON STREET, BOY HIT BY AUTO

While running after a ball on Hayden street, Tuesday afternoon, Edward Iselson, 10, of 61 McAlister street, was knocked down by an automobile and cut and bruised about the face and arms, according to police records. The car which struck the youth was driven by Dr. S. L. B. Mwin, who reported officers that he and his wife offered only minor cuts and bruises and he was given treatment at his office.

Dr. Baldwin told police that he met every effort to avoid striking the boy, but failed, as the youth ran almost directly in the path of his machine. No case was made against Dr. Baldwin.

'My Life Story' Written by Rudolph Valentino

25TH INSTALLMENT.

A ghastly pallor began to overspread my erstwhile defiant visage. My stomach, that traitorous organ of the most valiant system, proceeded to betray me. I knew that again a malignant fate was about to prove my undoing.

I saw Maria's eyes waver and leave my face with that little look of mingled superiority, contempt and compassion that said, "Oh, you can't do it, after all, can you?" and just as, miserably, I carefully proceeded to replace the pipe upon the desk, I felt, rather than saw, the stern black eyes of my father riveted upon me from the doorway.

I made an attempt at insouciance, inclining my head pleasantly and trying to gulp out a few casual words. "I don't think I feel very well, I—"

Betrayed by illness.

But I needn't have troubled, for my father's eyes of a physician had already diagnosed my misdeed and the resultant plight.

Even if my face had not given me away, the pipe kept emitting tell-tale wreaths of smoke that curled up to the ceiling in what seemed to me to be the most gigantic spirals I had ever witnessed.

Well, no need for me to jog my memory further. It serves me all too well. Instead of being the hero of a daring bit of "business," as we say in films, I became the central figure of a most disgusting comedy. A comedy to all save me. But it was sufficient to save me from the caning I should otherwise have been the just recipient of.

Punished Enough.

My father seemed to feel that my miserable contortions were punishment enough, and dozing off, he felt his pipe was safe from me from that time forth.

He was quite right! I abandoned smoking as the "grand gesture" for some years to come.

I consoled myself by remembering that Maria, when all was said and done, was only my sister, and that an opportunity to distinguish myself would doubtless present itself when I should have a more discerning and appreciative audience.

Never Success.

But my youthful philanderings never met with very much success. Bathing, putting the cart before the horse, I have shown how frequently ignominious I was made to appear before the eyes of Elisa, the cook's daughter, at the agricultural college—what with calves bursting out of barn doors, hilling in mangers to proclaim my love, and such-like things! And when, at 6, my very first love entered my heart and life, I didn't fare much better.

The name of this fair charmer I recall very well indeed. It was such music to my infant lips that it has tinkled in my mind ever since, fair and sweet and faraway. Teolinda! Teolinda! What more charming name to teach the embryo man the whole musical score of love!

Three Years Older.

Teolinda was older than I. I had a penchant for "older women." She was 9 when I was 6. And she was carved out of warm ivory, with long, flowing black hair and corresponding eyes. Teolinda had a sister who was as ugly as Teolinda was beautiful. And they were always and inevitably together.

When I first fell in love with Teolinda I was a timid swain, content to live my love at a remote distance, merely feasting my eyes upon the fair one's face.

But time wears away the patience of six years with astonishing rapidity. And there came the time when I desired to put my love to the test, so to speak.

I began to haunt Teolinda's house. One day, after several such hauntings,

I was enchanted to observe my Amaryllis shyly coming toward me from her front doorstep. I brazenly and rather too loudly pronounced her magic name.

She gave me one affrightened look, turned from me, dashed up the steps and before I quite knew what it was all about, the ugly sister gave me such a beating and scratching as quite battered my premature passion out of me.

I crept away, scared and disillusioned. I would have no more of love, forsooth! I was done with women! I would stick to the eminently more satisfactory company of my own kind, my own sex!

All these things and many more came back to me in those first few minutes with Maria. We kept up a constant battery of, "Do you remember this?" and "Oh, do you remember that?" Now and then the ready tears would come because of a memory shared in sadness.

Since my mother passed away, Maria has gone through a lot of suffering. She was left quite alone at my mother's death. My brother is married and living quite a distance from her and such relatives as we have in Italy were distant connections and not especially congenial.

Laugh again with the "Great Lover" in tomorrow's installment. He arranges a special showing of "The Four Horsemen" especially for his sister, who had never seen the "sheik" on the screen. Triumph at last! The picture brought to her face that look of admiration and respect that all his youthful pranks had failed to do. Read of his plans for her future. Told in tomorrow's paper.

Miss Collett Stages Great Fight in Rain To Win Over Rival

Three Outstanding Stars Are Defeated in First Round of Match Play—Bitter Contest Fought By Women Rivals.

Haverford, Pa., September 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—Three outstanding rivals for the women's golf crown of Glenna Collett were eliminated today in a series of sensational first round upsets which spared the champion herself only after an exciting uphill battle.

While the title holder was being carried to the home green of the Merion course, through a drenching downpour to win over Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, two up, Maureen O'Connell, Metropolitan champion, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, victor in the national event in 1924, and Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, who defeated Miss Collett earlier in the season, were meeting unexpected defeat.

Miss O'Connell, failing to bring her putter under command on the wet greens, bowed to Mrs. Lee Mida, of Chicago, 4 and 3. Excellent recovery shots from wacky traps carried Mrs. G. S. Cassel, of Aurora, Ill., to victory over Mrs. Hurd, 2 and 1, while Miss Van Wie went down before the consistently good golf of Mrs. Norman Torger, of Glen Cove, N. Y., who brought off a smooth incoming card of 38.

Six Favorites Are Out.
Miss O'Connell, Mrs. Hurd and Miss Van Wie follow Louise Fordyce, Marion Turpie and Mrs. Dorothy Klotz, Purdue, who failed to qualify yesterday, and thus Miss Collett tonight found removed from her path six contenders who loomed formidably before her quest of the title was begun.

With the links turned into a quagmire by the heavy rain, virtually all the favorites were in danger of defeat and only one victory was secured by a wide margin when Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, for three years Wisconsin champion, won over Mrs. Arnold Jackson, 6 and 5.

Of the other matches, Mrs. C. F. Letts, of Chicago, 1 up in another of the day's surprises.

Helen Payson, of Portland, Maine, defeated Mrs. C. E. Armstrong, of Philadelphia, 3 and 2, Virginia Wilson, of Chicago, put out Mrs. J. W. Taylor, of Chicago, 2 and 1, and Edith Cummings, of Chicago, survived an exciting battle against Helen Meehan, of Philadelphia, 2 and 1, in three of the ten matches which ran to form.

Miss Wilson was forced to fight her way back to victory after being three down at the tenth, playing the last six holes in one under par to score her win.

Late Rally Fails Star.
A belated rally on the last nine holes failed to save Ada Mackenzie, Canadian champion, who lost to Mrs. G. H. Stetson, Philadelphia, 2 and 1.

VANDY HEADS ARE SILENT ON PROSPECTS

Nashville, Tenn., September 28.—(AP)—While admitting that there was a hard fight ahead, Vanderbilt coaches would go no further tonight in discussing the Commodore's chances of winning against Alabama, southern conference football champions, in the big contest at the stadium next Saturday.

Sorely surrounds any public expression from the coaches on daily practice or planned surprises on the part of the Commodores and ray inquiry regarding the probable Vanderbilt lineup is met with a blank stare. In the opening games Alabama defeated Millsaps, 54 to 0, and Vanderbilt showed like prowess by administering a 69-to-0 defeat to the Middle Tennessee State Teachers' college.

Vanderbilt lineup for the struggle is still in the problematical stage by reason of the physical condition of Peck Owen, regarded as the favorite for the quarterback position. A scratch on his hand resulted in a land infection which has made it impossible for him to raise one of his arms.

Whether the infection will become sufficiently localized to permit lancing is a question which is puzzling attending physicians.

In case Owen is disabled, Bill Spears will get the call at the quarterback berth. Should Owen start it is probable that Spears will be kept on the bench until later in the game, although none of the coaches as yet have given any hint as to the starting line-up.

Jimmy Armstrong and "Cowboy" Jones, who were missing from the State Teachers' game on account of injuries, have returned to the lineup.

"Butt" Brown is also suffering from a practice injury. He has been turning daily, however, with the varsity eleven. The lineup of the first team in practice has been Sharp, center; McKibben and Lusk, tackles; Keene and Brown, guards; Coles and Armstrong, line; Spears, quarterback; Cargile and Jones, halves; and Hendrix, fullback.

'GATORS LEAVE TODAY ON TRIP TO CHICAGO

Gainesville, Fla., September 28.—(AP)—Twenty-seven Florida football players under the direction of coaches Tom Seligman, James Lee and C. C. Patton and Manager Rawles, will leave here tomorrow afternoon on the long journey to Chicago, where they will meet the University of Chicago, in a game Saturday.

This is the first invasion of the midwest by a Florida team, and while little hope is held out for a victory, the fight will be carried into the camp of the enemy with full force.

The team has this week shown improvement over the poor form exhibited against Southern college last Saturday and today's workout saw a great deal of spirit exhibited. The final practice here will be staged at 6:30 o'clock in the morning. Friday will find the squad looking over the battle ground in a session on Stage field.

The lineup which has been selected tentatively for the game Saturday has only two changes from the opening lineup against Southern. Walker is given the quarterback position in preference to Mowery, while Larsen will run at the half job occupied by Livingston. The probable starting lineup is:

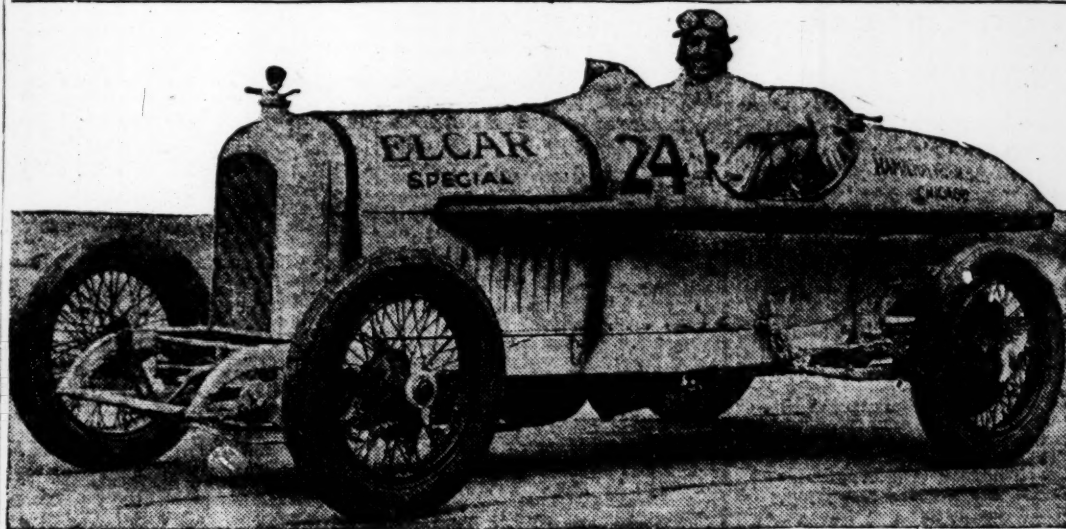

Stanley and Osterhout, ends; Davis and Clemens, tackles; Tucker and Goldstein, guards; Conner, center; Walker, quarterback; Larsen and Irlig, halfbacks; and Bishop, fullback.

Ty Cobb Favors New York Yanks To Beat Cards

Omaha, Neb., September 28.—(AP)—Ty Cobb, veteran pilot of the Detroit Tigers, picks the Yanks to beat the Cardinals in the world series.

En route with Tris Speaker, pilot of the Cleveland Americans and a party of southern sportsmen to Speaker's favorite hunting grounds several miles by pack train from Valley, Wyo., Cobb said he believed experience would be a deciding factor.

ENTERED IN FAIR RACES HERE

At the wheel of the Elcar Special, with which he held the world's 10-mile record for two years, is Al Cotey, veteran dirt track and speedway star, who has entered for the auto races which climax the Southeastern fair in Atlanta, Saturday, October 9.

Cotey Enters Races At Lakewood Track

Al Cotey, daring automobile race driver who kept the hair of auto race fans literally standing on end for long and thrilling moments in the spring races at Lakewood this year, has entered his lightning-fast Elcar as the first of the stars to break the ice for the Southeastern fair automobile races, to be held next Saturday, October 9.

Announcement that automobile races would bring the great fair to a close, was made Tuesday by Oscar Mills, vice president and general manager, after more than a month of negotiations with many of the great stars of the motor speedways whom he finally induced to come to Atlanta for Saturday, October 9.

Names Are Withheld.
Names of the stars who will race were not announced Tuesday. Mr. Mills stated that he intended to hold the names of the entrants in abeyance until several more for whom he is angling have formally entered and thus bound themselves to stick to the bitter end regardless of the kind of steel their prospective opponents may be expected to show.

"I am hopeful, in fact, I am highly confident, of bringing two of the bitterest rivals of the dirt track together in at least one event on the auto race program," Mr. Mills said.

Horse races will provide the sporting spices for the Southeastern fair entertainment program the first five days of the fair's big week. Walter Candler has entered 27 of his best horses, including those which are racing on the Grand Circuit at Detroit this week.

George Stiles, the most feared driver on southern tracks, has also entered a thoroughly representative list from his stables. More than 20 other horsemen have entered, all entries closing today and with the possibility of new surprises, besides the one furnished by Mr. Candler's entries.

Many Big Features.
The horse races this year are to be enlivened for those who do not understand the sports of kings. Free acts of the most sensational nature available are to be presented between heats of the races. Three races scheduled each day provide nine heats, with eight intermissions between heats. Mr. Mills has spent the major part of the fair's $50,000 amusement budget on the eight free attractions which will be presented between heats of the races. The nature of the acts will be announced in the news section of the paper during the next three days before the fair opens, this Saturday.

Jaycee Golf Tourney Slated for Next Week

Qualifying in the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce golf tournament is scheduled to end Sunday, and the tournament is open to all members of the Junior chamber, according to an announcement Tuesday. The tourney is to be played over the Piedmont park course.

The tournament will be a match play affair, with all entrants playing from scratch. A flight arrangement, providing for eight players in each flight, has been planned. The number of flights will depend on the number of entrants in the tourney, and a cup has been provided for the tournament champion.

Other prizes have also been prepared, all of them having been donated by various concerns. Plans of the tournament call for two matches each week until the finals are completed.

With the greens at the Piedmont park course in the best condition that they have been in years, many snappy matches are expected in the meet.

The annual Jaycee tourney has been an event of considerable interest in the past, with scores of golfers engaged in the tilt from among the members of the Junior civic organization. Last year Chess Lagomarsino, youthful star, won the Junior chamber cup in a spectacular battle with Dick Wuchell and it is not unlikely that these two stars will meet again this year before the tournament is over.

Wallace Lindquist, professional at Piedmont park, is receiving entries for the tournament and announces that the list is rapidly assuming such proportions that a number of flights are certain.

Bulldogs Suffer Loss Of Star From Squad

Athens, Ga., September 28.—(Special.)—Announcement that George Van Giesen, star football player, will be forced to discontinue his gridiron activities with the Georgia Bulldogs for the remainder of the season, was made tonight, dealing a hard blow to Red and Black followers.

Van Giesen had been a casualty for over a week, but hopes had been held that he would return in time for the game with the Virginia Cavaliers next Saturday. All was progressing nicely until this afternoon when his injury was rehurt, the injury drawing his first victim of the season in the Bulldog household. Van Giesen, a leading end of last season, was both injured and his loss is a source of keen regret.

Coach Woodruff effected a backfield change in today's scrimmage against the freshmen, using Frank Dudley at fullback. Dudley started last Saturday's game at quarter, and should fit well in his new position, boosting this berth along with Kain, Boland, and McCarty.

The varsity was pitted against the freshmen in a scrimmage this afternoon, dividing time between offensive and defensive play. Only one man was used against the yearlings, though several substitutions were in order.

Bulldogs have on their menu for tomorrow final scrimmages before the clash with the Cavaliers, which promises to be unusually hard. Besides the afternoon work the Bulldogs are engaged in a nightly "skull" sessions this week.

DES JARDINS TO PERFORM AT A. A. C. POOL TONIGHT

Pete Desjardins, Miami diving marvel, who has five times annexed the national diving crown and was once Olympic contender, will stage an exhibition at the Atlanta Athletic club tonight at 8 o'clock for members of the club, according to announcement Tuesday.

To make the program complete, several of the aces of the A. A. C. diving team, including Bill Murray and Buster Harris, will also perform at this time.

Des Jardins is en route to his Miami home from the sesqui-centennial exposition at Philadelphia, where he recently successfully defended his national diving championship in a field of many competitors.

He arrived in Atlanta Tuesday, accompanied by several of his Miami teammates.

A. J. Henderson, fellow member of the Miami swimming team, will stage an exhibition race against Red Holleman, sprinting ace of the A. A. C. team.

JACKETS HOLD FIRST NIGHT GRID PRACTICE

BY C. F. THOMPSON.

The Golden Tornado, operating under the new schedule arranged by Coach Alexander following the most upsetting game in the many southern gridiron tilts last Saturday, when Coach Alexander's team, the Georgia Tech, suffered defeat at the hands of the Petrols from Oglethorpe, went in to an extra session Tuesday night for a lengthy "skull" practice.

Coach Alexander's idea is that with more active practice in the two hours allowed by school officials for varsity football training afternoons, and the usual lengthy "skull" dugey strung out after times, he can better the ability of the Tornado before they tangle horns with the Cadets from the Virginia Military Institute at Grant field Saturday in the Jackets' first conference battle.

Others in Scrimmage.
And preparations for that game Saturday are going on full tilt, as was evidenced Tuesday afternoon during practice. The varsity men who did not go into action against the Stormy Birds last Saturday were operating on the offensive against the "last ring" men of Coach Bjorkman, the latter having been fondly designated the "Black Devil" in a fast and furious scrimmage. Schooled in the defensive tactics of V. M. I., the Devils men put up just such opposition as the varsity may expect Saturday against the varsity's line plungers, and runs and devils other methods of forwarding the pigskin.

Today the varsity men saw action Saturday will assume the offensive in a scrimmage against the Freshmen, who will also use V. M. I. defensive tactics. Thus it is seen that Coach Alexander is not looking for and is preparing against any of possible defeat when he backs his first conference foe.

Meanwhile, Tuesday, the others that make up the three varsity representations were being again thoroughly schooled and trained in many divisions of the game. Dummy tackling and blocking consumed a goodly part of the afternoon. Signal running and dummy scrimmage among the first string men also was part of the training menu Tuesday.

The next night session is scheduled to be held Thursday night, with another preceding the game, to be held Friday night.

Wycoff, in Debut, Makes Brilliant Showing as Pro

The rapping Doug Wycoff, who achieved considerable fame boating and running with the Georgia Tech gridiron aggregation of former years, made his debut in professional football Sunday, according to advices received in Atlanta.

Doug was the individual star in a game between Newark and Chicago, two football clubs, at Newark Sunday, scoring all the points that Newark made. He carried the ball over the counterline just after the last quarter opened and kicked goal from placement for the extra score. Just before the whistle in the third quarter he had gotten away to one of the spectacular Wycoff runs, carrying the ball to within the shadow of the goal posts after a mad 60-yard dash.

Wycoff played right halfback, Adrian Maurer, last year's Oglethorpe star, left halfback, and Jimmy Brewster, also of Tech team, quarter back on the Newark eleven.

Edinburgh, Scotland, September 28.—Howard Frank Whitney, former president of the American Golf association, tonight was elected a member of the rules of golf committee of the Royal Ancient Golf club. Mr. Whitney is the first native American to receive a position in the government of the game.

Whitney has been a member of the committee since 1924, and promises to be unusually hard. Besides the afternoon work the Bulldogs are engaged in a nightly "skull" sessions this week.

Wycoff, in Debut, Makes Brilliant Showing as Pro

The rapping Doug Wycoff, who achieved considerable fame boating and running with the Georgia Tech gridiron aggregation of former years, made his debut in professional football Sunday, according to advices received in Atlanta.

Doug was the individual star in a game between Newark and Chicago, two football clubs, at Newark Sunday, scoring all the points that Newark made. He carried the ball over the counterline just after the last quarter opened and kicked goal from placement for the extra score. Just before the whistle in the third quarter he had gotten away to one of the spectacular Wycoff runs, carrying the ball to within the shadow of the goal posts after a mad 60-yard dash.

Wycoff played right halfback, Adrian Maurer, last year's Oglethorpe star, left halfback, and Jimmy Brewster, also of Tech team, quarter back on the Newark eleven.

Lefthanders Slated To Open 1926 World Series

Pennock and Sherdel Loom as Starters On Mound In Opener

Both Managers Indicate Lefthanders Will Start on Mound in First Game of Series—Cold, Rainy Weather Prevents Practice for Opening Game.

New York, September 28.—(AP)—Rain and cold weather kept the world's baseball championship contenders, the Yankees and Cardinals, idle today, but the rival field marshals, Miller Huggins and Rogers Hornsby, improved the interval by an intensive study of tactics and strategy. The chief result of this "master-minding" is the prospect that the opening game of the world series on Saturday will develop a battle of lefthanders, probably between Herb Pennock, the willowy pitcher of the Yankees, and Willie Sherdel, of the St. Louis club.

A consistent hurler, Pennock has been the most consistent of the Yankees' staff this season. Close observers favor his selection not only because of his left arm but also because he requires at least three days' rest between games. By twisting the opener, he would be ready to go back quicker than if held for a later assignment.

Huggins indicated today he was virtually certain to pick a lefthander, which would confine his choice to Pennock or Dutch Ruether, among the regulars. The "Midget Manager," he never, also, is grooming Urban Shocker, spitball ace and a right-hander, for early service. It is possible that Huggins may switch to Shocker as he opens his hurling gun, but Urban is more likely to start the second game.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, the veteran who helped the Cardinals in their winning drive after being "sold down the river" by the Chicago Cubs, will get the first game assignment. Hornsby indicated, if Sherdel is not selected, Alex is in the same position as Shocker; he is virtually certain to pitch Sunday if he doesn't start Saturday.

A Heavy Blow.
The loss of Benny Rengough, star Yankee catcher, who fractured a bone in his right forearm when hit by a pitched ball in the last western trip, is a heavy blow to Huggins. Rengough is out of the series altogether, thus putting the catching burden upon Pat Collins and Hank Severid, whose luck in being shifted has carried him into straight championship conflicts. Last season Severid went from St. Louis to Washington in time to share the series catching work for the Senators with "Mud" Ruel. He was obtained from Washington this season by the Yankees.

Huggins had decided to start Earl Combs, the fleet Kentuckian, at his regular post in centerfield, instead of Pascual, who alternated with Combs during a good share of the season. Players of both teams expect to put in snappy drills tomorrow morning. The Cardinals' according to Hornsby, will practice at the Yankee stadium at 9:30, while American longers are scheduled for a workout at 11 o'clock. The use of the stadium, either before or after the Yankees' morning workout has been extended to the National League champions.

A new "Blue Grotto," similar to those of Capri and the Island of Risi in the Adriatic, recently was discovered accidentally by some gentlemen near Janssenvitz, Jugo Slavia, searching for waterfalls. The grotto is 13 feet high and 33 feet long and through the middle of it flows a stream filled with fish.

CONTOS' FIRST MAT SHOW SET FOR OCT. 13TH

Throwing caution to the four winds, John Contos, prosperous oil man from California in the summer months and Atlanta wrestling promoter in the winter, Tuesday announced for certain that his inaugural show of the winter season here will be held on October 13.

"I am not superstitious," declared Mr. Contos, frankly enough. The demon promotion man, just back in the city after a sojourn in the golden west, is a very different looking being, having "ropped about 30 pounds and sprouted a mustache under the heavy and highly pressurized climate of California.

"I'm a Georgian from now on," he stated upon his arrival, and immediately retained half a dozen of his strayed pounds. John has big things in store for the Atlanta public, he says, beginning with his very first entertainment on the 13th, which is a Wednesday night. He plans to make that an all-star affair, featuring three new grapplers that he looked over while in the west. Jim Browning is one, Tony Devilish, an Italian, is another, and the third is a Greek named George Kotsanos. Contos plans to stack each of them against another heavyweight and make it a three-reefer mat circus.

V. M. I. TO SEND STRONG SQUAD TO FACE TECH

Lexington, Va., September 28.—(Special).—The V. M. I. cadets came out of the hard-fought Richmond game last Saturday with only the usual bruises and muscle soreness, and the indications are that the squad will be in fine physical condition for the clash with Georgia Tech. at Atlanta Saturday.

No one is on the hospital list at present, though both first and second string players have been seriously injured. The V. M. I. Freshman crew in preparation for Coach Alexander's Yellow Jackets.

Though in 1923 and 1924 the Cadets held Tech to victories decided in each case by a single field goal, the Golden Tornado swept down the field last year for five touchdowns. This season the odds are distinctly favorable to the Georgians, but V. M. I.'s fighting line is expected to put up a luscious defense that will hold scoring to the minimum.

In the opening game Wofford was able to register only one first down, which came from a forward pass, and Saturday Richmond university, though showing up to great advantage on the defense, was unable to pierce the Cadets' line for a single first down.

V. M. I.'s offense did not begin to function consistently until the last period, and Coach Clarkson and Ruffey will concentrate on their attacking weapons this week. Several new plays will be put in, and the Cadet backs, most of whom are new, will be given a major game when they trot out on Grant field, are expected to show their mettle as ground gainers.

New Damage Suit For Beaten King

Philadelphia, September 28.—(AP)—Suit for $35,000 damages was entered here against Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, by two spectators who saw the fighter lose his title. They are M. I. Laroche and his wife, Mabel.

It is alleged that while Dempsey was making his way through the crowd from the ring to his dressing room in the Sesqui-centennial stadium after the fight with Gene Tunney last Thursday night he struck Mrs. Laroche in the side with his elbow and she fell, suffering injuries. The exact nature of the injuries were not disclosed.

HAWK-EYEING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS

Another Great Honor.
The call of Atlanta has reached the ears of another world-famous athlete. For many years Atlantans have boasted of the fact that this city is the home of Bobby Jones, and many other famous athletes have claimed the Gate City as their home, but now comes the news that another famous sportsman may come to Atlanta to make his home.

"It's an ill wind which blows nobody good," they say, and this axiom may prove true for Atlanta if Pete Desjardins, diving champion of the United States, finally decides to make Atlanta his home instead of Miami, where he has lived for several years.

"Pete," the diminutive bundle of muscle and grace who is without question the best diver in the United States, has still some distance to go before he reaches the two-score year mark and he is contemplating making his residence in Atlanta and attending school here at one of the high schools.

He is now in Atlanta attending the national diving championship at the sesqui-centennial meet in Philadelphia and will give an exhibition of diving at the Atlanta Athletic club Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. Tuesday afternoon when asked how long he expected to stay in the city, Pete said in his quiet way, "I might stay here from now on and attend high school here."

Can you imagine many nationally-known athletes entering a city with as little blare of trumpets as attended the arrival of this quiet youth who is "the best there is in his line?"

There is one other champion who might go about his business in as quiet a way as does "Pete" if the public would allow him to do so, and that is Bobby Jones.

In many ways little "Pete" is much like the great Bobby. In every sport there is always some one man possesses such great natural ability in his line as to make his efforts seem ridiculously easy. In golf, Bobby Jones is that man, and in diving "Pete" Desjardins holds the place of honor.

If you were to ask Pete just how he executes one of his "impossible" dives he would answer, "I do not know, I just do it." And that is the way it appears from the sidelines. Pete "just does it" and he does it with an ease which is absolutely miraculous.

He is a champion of champions in his line and anyone who can use his influence to persuade Pete to make his home in Atlanta will be giving this city another subject to boast about.

Wecke Is Selected Sandlot League As Series Scorer Meeting Today

St. Louis, September 28.—(AP)—Herman Wecke, of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, has been selected by the local chapter of the Baseball Writers' association as official St. Louis scorer for the world's series. Approval of the selection was received today from Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner.

A special meeting of directors of the Atlanta Sandlot league will be called Wednesday afternoon at the offices of Sam Saltzman, secretary, 55 1-2 Luckie street, at 4 o'clock. All managers are requested to be present at this meeting as some very important matters will be discussed.

The football schedule for the coming season will also be drawn up for the opening games. Other matters will be arranged at this meeting. All teams not represented at the meeting will not be permitted to play in the initial games of the season.

TORONTO WINS OPENING GAME OF SERIES

Toronto, September 28.—(AP)—The Toronto Internationals took the first game of the little world's series from Louisville, American association champions, today, by a score of 2 to 0. Jess Doyle getting the verdict over Ben Tincup in a pitchers' duel.

Tincup allowed only three hits, one a double by Miller, while Doyle was touched up for five, three of them scratch. Both teams fielded perfectly with Lyons and Miller featuring the Leafs' defense work and Betzel and Webb being of great assistance to Tincup.

After being held hitless for three innings the Leafs broke out in the fourth, hits by Gilbooley and Mullen being followed by sacrifices by Lawry and Carlyle for the first run. In the next inning Miller opened with a double, went to third on Heath's sacrifice and scored the final run of the game while Doyle was being retired. LOUISVILLE. ab. r. h. po. a. e. FLANKS WORRY WADE IN TIDE VANDY BATTLE

University, Ala., September 28.—(AP)—Coach Wallace Wade, of Alabama's Crimson Tide centered his attention this week on candidates for the guard positions in preparation for the southern conference opening encounter Saturday with Vanderbilt.

Other positions on the squad, Coach Wade believes, are as strong as in previous years, with Captain Barnes leading the team at quarterback. Rosenfield and Caldwell, in the backfield, showed well against Millsaps last Saturday, and Brown, at fullback, scored three touchdowns.

Perry and Pickard, in the tackle berths, featured individual play in the forward wall, and Homes is believed to be one of the strongest centers in the conference.

Wade has not yet announced his selection for the end positions for the Vanderbilt game, but he has a number of capable players for these positions.

Vanderbilt's strong line, averaging 200 pounds, is expected to prove a powerful defense against Wade's backfield, while the Commodore's hopes for a victory over the 1925 conference leaders rest on an almost equally heavy offense.

Both Vanderbilt and Alabama are rated as strong contenders for the current championship, and Wade looks to the Commodore contest as one of the hardest on his schedule.

Texas Champs Take Fifth Game, 4 to 3, To Lead New Orleans

Steers Pile Up Two Runs in Eighth Inning and One in Final Frame Defeating Pelicans in Hard-Fought Game To Break Series Tie.

Steer Stadium, Dallas, Texas, September 28.—(AP)—The Dallas Steers won a game of belated rallies from the New Orleans Pelicans today, scoring a run in the ninth inning to gain a 4-to-3 victory. It was the third Dixie series victory for the Steers, while New Orleans has won two games, one game being tied.

Morse's walk and a single by Gross and Brainerd with none out sent the Steers home with the winning tally. New Orleans had scored twice in the first half of the ninth, to overcome a two-run lead Dallas had gained in the eighth after the teams had battled on even terms until that time.

The next game of the series is scheduled to be played in New Orleans Thursday.

With hits well scattered and no threat of a score, the New Orleans Pelicans and the Dallas Steers raved through the first three innings of the game when Tucker walked, went to second on a sacrifice and reached third by a short infield hit by Deal. Ewald walked and was forced at second by Dowie, Tucker scoring on the play. Riley scored for Dallas when he singled and Woelber drove a double into center field.

Dallas swung into the lead in the eighth when Riley walked and two sacrifices and an error hit brought him across the plate. Tate scored when Riviere, who replaced Shuman on the mound, singled over second base, leaving the score 3-1.

The Dallas infield blew sky-high while the Pelicans rallied in the ninth. With one out Ostergaard walked. Gardner singled and Hendrick filed out and Vick singled, filling the bases. The hit drove Riviere to the showers, Slim Love replacing him and forcing Tucker, who replaced Shuman, to ground to Gross, who muffed it, and then Whaley grounded to Tate, who also erred, leading the tying run home.

Three Pitchers Used.
Each team used three pitchers. Shuman, for Dallas, retired for a pinch hitter in the sixth. Riviere replaced him in the ninth. New Orleans cleanup hitter, Scott, was knocked from the mound in the eighth. Scott finished the inning, retiring for a pinch hitter in the ninth and Martin assuming the task. Love was the winning pitcher while Martina was credited with the loss.

Riley started the Steers on their rally in the eighth by getting a walk. Woelber's sacrifice and Tate's infield single sent him home. Billings sacrificed and Riviere singled, pushing Tate over the plate. Riviere's hit drove Moss from the mound. Scott replaced him. Scott's throw caught Iviere off first soon after.

Each team got its first run in the sixth.

Brilliant Fielding.
Fielding on the whole was of rare brilliancy by both sides, touching its peak in the fourth, when the Dallas Steers scored three runs.

Summary: Two-base hit, Tate; sacrifice, Gross; Deal, Moss, Whaley, Hendrick, Billings; Woelber, hits and runs, off Shuman 3 hits, 1 run in 6 innings; Riviere 2 hits, 2 runs in 2-3-4-5-6-7-8-9; Scott 2 hits, no runs in 1-2-3-4-5-6-7-8-9; Martin 1 run, 2 hits in none in 1-2-3-4-5-6-7-8-9; struck out, by Shuman 1, Riviere 2, Moss 2, Riviere 2, Martin 1; double play, Vick to Dowie, passed ball, Billings; left on bases, New Orleans 12, Dallas 11; errors, Brennan, Fannin, Campbell and Hill. NORMA IS BAFLED.

Dorinda bent forward and touched Norma's hand, resting on the broad arm of the big easy chair in which her hostess sat. Norma looked so comfortable sitting there—so settled, so assured. For just a moment insight was given the guest to realize what this other girl stood for, and she herself had the lonely feeling of a homeless child watching through a window another child's home life. "That's why I'm answering the same questions I've answered so often lately. For I have tried to make people understand—I really have. But they never can, some way. Probably it's because the Grandon people never know me and never wanted to. They don't really want to now. They despised father, and they haven't any faith in his daughter. I suppose they'd crook a finger at me sooner or later, when they got ready to. They would think it was their duty. But they've waited too long. I don't need them now."

"Try again—to explain, I mean," Norma urged, ignoring the latter part of this outburst.

"I want to come and go as I please, without having to consult any human being about my plans or movements. I want to select my own friends, wherever I find them, without any thought of position, or any of that sort. I want to entertain them when and where I please, and in any way I please, in my own home or elsewhere. That isn't a very terrible program, is it? It's what any normal human being wants, isn't it, if one comes down to brass tacks?"

"Hasn't she queer ideas?" Norma ventured.

"In one way it is. But you see, Dorinda—don't go off the handle, will you?—the point is that you've selected such awful friends. Surely you don't like drunkenness and vulgarity—and yet—"

Dorinda reflected.

"I suppose it is hard for people to understand," she said at last. "I don't like Kitty and Chad and Jim because they drink. I like them in spite of their drinking. They all have some wonderful qualities, and I shut my eyes to the drinking just as one shuts them to other faults in other friends. I think I see all three of them as they are. Chad has the sweetest nature I've ever known, though he looks like a faun and is one at heart. He's gay, generous, sympathetic, understanding, and, though perhaps you won't believe it, he's clean minded. He's also weak and irresponsible and lazy, and he loves a good time and he drinks too much. I'm hoping he'll get over his worst faults."

"He won't, you let him fill himself up at your house all day and all night," Norma pointed out with sudden austerity.

"That was a nasty one, but I deserve it," she said at last. "It's a problem. He knows father had a cellar, and it there isn't what he wants on the table or the sideboard, he goes down and helps himself. Of course I've got to do something about it—I was really ashamed of him today. Then there's Kitty. She went on hurriedly. 'She's a genius—every one admits that—and her music means everything to me. It's very rarely that Kitty loses her head as she did last night and this morning. She has other faults, too. I suppose, but I shut my eyes to them, just as they all shut their eyes to my ignorance and arrogance and bitterness. I can't imagine life without them, now that I've found them, and I have a persistent feeling of having known them since the beginning of things. Sometimes I even have an uncanny belief that we all played together in Greek groves thousands of years ago. Things they say and do have a certain familiarity from the first.'"

She laughed a little, as if in apology for these imaginings, but Norma remained serious, watching her with grave eyes. Norma's mind was rather like a garden party—a space with a pleasant background, in and out of which agreeable persons decorously wandered. It now disturbed her to have these aliens in it, but as they were there she tried to be hospitable.

"I'm not making out a very good case for them or for myself," Dorinda added drearily, "and I suppose you won't believe me if I tell you, though it sounds idiotic, that I believe I can help those three. Now, laugh!"

Norma did not laugh. Instead she asked another question, invited another alien.

"How about Jim Bryant?"

"Jim hasn't the fine nature of the other two. There's a queer streak in him. But he has more brains than all the rest of us put together. He went through Harvard and took a post-graduate course in literature in France, and now he's trying to write—or says he is. He has been an education to me. He is as many-sided as Hunker or George Moore—knows art, music, literature, keeps up with the new movements in them all, though I don't know how he does it. His ideas of life are pretty sickening, and he talks as if he had the morals of a cat, but I think it's principally talk with him. Anyway, one doesn't have to pay attention to that, and he's just as apt to talk of something beautiful as he is of something nasty. There's a certain excitement," Dorinda added simply, "in never knowing which it's going to be."

"I suppose you won't like my saying this," Norma began timidly, "but you know every one is talking about Miss Perkins' club, the Black Butterflies, and about your joining it—"

Her friend shrugged.

"I haven't been there very often—only two or three times. I admit there are some poisonous creatures in it. But the club isn't large. There are only about a dozen members, and I rather think Kitty's getting tired of them."

"But weren't the Black Butterflies at your party last night?"

"Yes, most of them—more or less the pits."

Norma leaned forward and caught her hands.

"Then you are getting tired of them, too?"

"Oh them, yes. Not of Kitty and Chad and Jim. I can never give up those three. Kitty's music and Jim's talk—and even Chad's—have spoiled me for any one else. Their slogan is Beauty First, you know—and, though you'll never believe it, they have given me little journeys among the stars many a time. Kitty's music alone—but what's the use of talking?"

"I know Miss Perkins is a wonderful musician," Norma murmured, trying to understand. "But— isn't she rather unbalanced?"

"She could have the world at her feet if she wanted it there. But she won't play for money, and she won't play for any one but herself and her friends. That's her creed, and she lives up to it. I know it does seem unbalanced to those who don't know that there really is such a thing as art for art's sake."

"Hasn't she other queer ideas?" Norma ventured. "Free love and all that?"

"Yes, she has other queer ideas. For example, you will almost never hear her or Chad or Jim using slang. They think it's ugly—and so it is. When I listen to the slang others use, and that slips off my own tongue—"

Dorinda had deliberately ignored the free love issue, and Norma followed her lead.

"But isn't it sinking! Do they think that's beautiful?"

"They go back to the Greeks and Romans on that issue. They didn't think—"

Norma broke in hastily. The Greeks and Romans were too remote from the moment to appeal to her.

"Then there's only one other thing to do," she sighed. "Can't you make friends with some of the best of the other set—a lot of them—and combine the two groups?"

"They wouldn't combine."

"Have you tried it?"

"You know I have—in a limited way. How could I really try it when I know so few people? But you know how it worked with you, for instance."

"Yes," Norma was baffled and showed it.

8,549,511 women would be a vast army. According to the 1920 Census of Manufactures, that is the number of women and girls employed in all trades in the United States.

Napoleon said, "An army travels on its stomach." This army of women travels on its general health.

Every working girl knows that time lost through illness seldom is paid for and seldom can be made up. Employers demand regularly, if she wants to keep her job or hopes for a better one, she must guard her health.

Atlanta, Ga.—"My system was weak and run-down, and I was tired. I was this way for five years or more. I read your advertisement in the papers and I decided to try your medicine, the Vegetable Compound, but I did not begin to take it regularly until after I was married. I got so much good from it that I feel fine and have gained in weight. I work in a room shop, but my work is not so hard on me now, and I keep my own house, and work my garden, too. I am telling all my friends of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how it has helped me."—Mrs. W. M. BAILEY, R. F. D. No. 5, Box 27, Atlanta, Georgia.

Missouri Woman Helped

Parkville, Mo.—"I am proud to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was so ill that I could not lie down at night. Then I got my husband to go to the store and buy me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I was up and around before the first bottle was gone, although I only weighed about ninety pounds. I took six or eight bottles and was able to do all my housework, washing and ironing. I take care of my five boys, and tend to my chickens and garden, where before I had to hire my washing and part of my housework."—Mrs. ANNA COLE, R. R. 2, Parkville, Missouri.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Revised U. S. Patent Office.

BEFORE MEXICO WON HER INDEPENDENCE FROM SPAIN (1821), THE FINE LANDS OF THE PROVINCE OF TEXAS, WHICH WAS THIRLY PEOPLED WITH MEXICANS AND INDIANS, HAD BEGUN TO ATTRACT SETTLERS FROM THE UNITED STATES. AT FIRST THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT WELCOMED THE NEWCOMERS AND GAVE THEM GRANTS OF LAND.

THE FIRST LARGE GROUP OF AMERICANS, LED BY STEPHEN AUSTIN, SETTLED IN THE REGION BETWEEN THE BRAZOS AND COLORADO RIVERS. BY 1830 THERE WERE 20,000 AMERICANS IN THE PROVINCE, WHILE A STEADY STREAM OF THEM KEPT POURING ACROSS THE SABINE RIVER FROM THE SOUTHERN STATES.

LEARNING THAT THE EVER-INCREASING AMERICAN POPULATION WOULD SOON HAVE COMPLETE CONTROL OF TEXAS, PRESIDENT SUBSTANTIATE OF MEXICO IN 1830 BARRED FURTHER IMMIGRATION FROM THE UNITED STATES, AND MADE THE PROVINCE A PART OF THE PURELY MEXICAN STATE OF COAHUILA.

THE TEXANS, AS WE MAY NOW CALL THE AMERICAN SETTLERS, PROTESTED AND CONTINUED TO RECEIVE NEW IMMIGRANTS ACROSS THE BORDER. WHEN MEXICO TRIED TO TIGHTEN HER GRIP ON THE PROVINCE, THE TEXANS PLANNED TO REVOLT IN THE HOPE OF BECOMING ANNEXED TO THE UNITED STATES.

PRISONERS FIGHT FIRE MENACING NEVADA CAPITAL

Carson City, Nev., September 28.—A forest and brush fire had reached the outskirts of Carson City, Nevada's capital, late Tuesday.

Prisoners from the state penitentiary and hastily recruited fire-fighters battled to keep it from sweeping into the city.

Two men were trapped by the flames and perhaps fatally burned. Three others received lesser injuries and medical assistance has been summoned from Virginia City.

The Carson City fire department started laying lines of hose to protect the city's homes, and water was played on the capital building to prevent the fire spreading there from flying sparks.

The blaze started in the brush and timberland west of Carson City, Bryan Whitmore, state prison guard, and Arthur Sunday, forest ranger, were caught behind walls of flames and before they were rescued received burns which may cause their death. The other injured were convicts, called out to help fight the fire.

CITY OF SAVANNAH OFFERS REWARD FOR NEGRO SLAYER

Savannah, Ga., September 28.—(AP) The city of Savannah today offered a reward of $200 for the arrest of Ed Frasier, alias "Snake," a negro, who on Saturday night killed Patrolman W. C. Elzey. The city has also requested the governor to offer a reward in the name of the state.

Dr. G. W. Goodman, of 537 West Howard street, Decatur, killed a rattlesnake with a stick after he ran over the poisonous reptile Friday, on the road to Jeffersonville, Ga.

After being struck the snake, measuring nearly six feet in length and weighing about 10 pounds, crawled to the top of a bank about three feet high, at the side of the road, and set itself for an attack, rattling its eight rattles so loudly that it might be heard for a block, the doctor said.

Dr. Goodman left his car and called for help. Getting no response, he picked up a stout stick and attacked the snake, which he vanquished with considerable effort. The snake will be mounted and kept; as a souvenir, the doctor stated.

MILWAUKEE ROAD, In Receivership, To Be Auctioned

Chicago, September 28.—On the front steps of the courthouse at Burr, Mont., next month, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, which has more than 11,000 miles of track and is one of the most important carriers of the west, will be sold to the highest bidder because it has failed to pay its way in recent years of high costs and competition.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson set the sale date for October 22, in a decision handed down here Tuesday afternoon, following months of litigation.

When the Milwaukee was thrown into receivership because of the waning of the dividends it was paying its stockholders, the receivers proposed that the road be placed on sale at a minimum figure of $100,000,000. This and other details of the disposal were referred to Judge Wilkerson, but on the plea of the bondholders' defense committee, the judge raised the upset price to $122,500,000. That will be the lowest bid considered.

Unable to Work Man Has Bad Time

Because he had aggravated stomach trouble, J. P. Baker was unable to work and was having a bad time. Finally he took the medicine of Dr. J. P. Baker, and he was able to get back to work.

Many people keep the OUTSIDE body clean but let their INSIDE body stay full of gas and poisons. Give the inside a REAL cleansing with the mixture of buckhorn bark, glycerine, etc., as sold under the name of Adierka. This acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels, eliminates metabolic poisons and removes old matter which has never thought was in your system, and which caused sour stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, etc., too much heavy food, but Adierka REMOVES the undigested surplus and have you feeling fine. ONE spoonful before each meal and take away that full bloated feeling. Even if your bowels move every day, Adierka brings out much additional matter which must cause trouble. Don't waste time with pills or tablets but let Adierka give your stomach and bowels QUICK relief.

Dr. J. P. Baker reports Adierka is the best medicine he has used in 37 years.

Dr. W. H. Barnhart writes he could not get along in his practice without Adierka. Dr. J. J. Weaver, a doctor for 50 years, says he knows no medicine better than Adierka.

Dr. L. Langlois prescribes Adierka regularly with GOOD effect.

J. B. Pickett writes: "After using Adierka I feel better than for 20 years. Adierka is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its REAL and quick action. Jacob's Pharmacy and other leading druggists." (adv.)

Slams Salaams

By Louise Dooly

WOMAN has been credited always—or discredited—with being the sentimental sex.

But some of the more cold-blooded of her observers (of both genders) are beginning to wonder.

For instance: The one woman I saw win a wager on the Dempsey-Tunney fight put her small bet on Tunney, why? Because of his war record in contrast to Dempsey's? No.

She studied the physical facts and the psychological, and because Tunney was three years younger, unsoftened by prosperity and adulation, and unharmed by the burdens attendant on both, she deliberately calculated that Tunney had a better chance to win.

THEN take the Florida disaster. One little paragraph in the news accounts had considerable significance as to my theme.

Ruth Bryan Owens, daughter of the Great Commoner, was found by the reporters washing dishes in a kitchen of one of Miami's over-crowded and under-manned hospitals.

Now, Mrs. Owens is an able woman and a successful organizer. Her name carries weight on her father's account and her own. She could have been helping to administer her city's job of organizing for relief. She could have been writing sob stories to broadcast for outside help, or even to sell. But there were men to handle those things.

The despised task of washing dishes that the sick and injured might be fed was not picturesque. It was downright hard and unpleasant work. It was almost undignified. But labor was demoralized and doubtless there was no clamor for the job.

Now I have seen Ruth Owens only once. She was speaking on a platform, and I remember particularly the grace of her hands and arms and their part in her spell-binding skill.

In the great emergency, did she lose sight of the right gesture with them? Well, judge for yourself. The need of the hour was clean dishes and plenty of them. She rolled up her sleeves and plunged in.

Sentiment? But what more practical. THE perils of peace, by the way, are constantly affording denial of that most stupid of all the defenses of war; that wars are necessary to develop men's heroic qualities.

The Florida disaster provided plenty of evidence that where there is capacity for courage, for self sacrifice, it will be supplied on demand.

THEN there are the women in politics. Welfare legislation is what they go in for, because, we are told, it is sentiment that guides their interest. Public health, protection of children and of women in industry, it is sentiment, you will hear the men-politicians say who are too big and broad to have wasted the past on such things, which guide women's service in public life.

But, wait a minute. How about this angle? Science makes all the research and compiles all the figures as to age of the workers, and hours, and physical fitness and such things which form the basis for the women's social legislation ideas. Science goes hand in hand with the women in their welfare programs.

But science has never been accused of being sentimental. It prides itself on being hard-boiled.

Can it be possible that the women, in their flair for social legislation, are as hard-boiled, as practical as they are sentimental?

Can it be that the spectacle of a 14-year-old child doing even eight hours daily labor shocks not only their mother sense, but their civic thrift, seeing, as they are obliged to do if they have any foresight—it does not take sentiment—the liability upon the community which such an overworked child is liable to become in his maturity?

AGAIN, women have not long of fainted in the jury box, but long enough for the fact to become alarmingly evident—alarming to those who would keep women merely sentimental—that the women jurors are not chicken-hearted about convicting law-breakers. Their justice in jury decisions is, if anything, more conspicuous than their mercy.

THE charge—or the credit—that they are the sentimental sex, man-made and woman-accepted for a long time because both found it convenient that way, is getting to be a little irksome now to the women. It was a useful tool in the days when "direct action" was denied them. Now the women themselves are getting to be the least tolerant of mere sentimentality as a motive in the more serious movements of women.

But don't let me give the impression that I think sentiment in women is on the wane, although sentimentality is. Just like fainting, which was once a badge of true femininity, sentiment is as deep as ever in women. Deeper, perhaps, since it need no longer be overworked, and so can be conserved for its proper uses.

To prove that it has not been killed, even with all the modernity of women, let us observe just one little detail in any well-conducted meeting presided over by the once overly sentimental sex. It may be a meeting to discuss a candidate for mayor or a new city charter. Absolutely correct parliamentary procedure is likely to obtain. The speeches are likely to be positively masculine in their logic. Or even their invective.

But always there are flowers on the platform. Always. To prove that the men interrupt me rudely here with the irrelevant question: "Do the women making the speeches raise the flowers in their gardens?"

If I must answer: Maybe not. But there the flowers are, a symbol.

Women, even women politicians, know the value of womanly sentiment. Even its political value!

Mrs. Malcolm Fleming Honored by Garden Club of America

The September issue of the bulletin of the Garden Club of America, which features the fall planting number, the name of Mrs. Malcolm Fleming is given as vice chairman for Georgia of the conservation department of the Garden Club of America. This is a deserved compliment conferred upon Mrs. Fleming, who is an active member of the Peachtree Garden club, holding the office of conservation chairman for the local club. She is rightly considered among the splendid material required by the national club in branching out further in the realm of conservation, and putting each state under a separate vice chairman.

Free Rein to Organize. These vice chairmen are given a free rein to organize committees as they may think best, using for affiliation any societies which are interested in this subject such as the Federated Garden clubs, the Women's Federated clubs, the Horticultural societies or any others that show a willingness to cooperate.

The general printing is done in the main office and samples are sent to each vice chairman, who is supplied with as much as she needs upon application. Each state having such different precedents must it course be as it were, a pioneer in her own way, but every chairman of conservation in all the affiliated clubs can help the work in general very much by taking up questions with the vice chairman of each state and making suggestions as to what branches of the work most need attention in her section.

Will Benefit Country. When the conservation department is organized some specific work will be accomplished for the country at large, as well as for the individual states. Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby, a member of the North Shore Garden club of Manchester, Mass., is chairman of the general committee which is stressing this work, destined to spread its beneficial network over the entire United States.

New York, September 28.—(4P)—Operators on the New York market were urged for control of the price movement in today's market, with the expectation of a price advance. Operators working for higher prices succeeded in marking up the price of the market, but the rallies did not hold in many cases, whereas bear traders were able to unsettle the general list. Commodity markets furnished much more evidence of interest in the market, with bids up to new high levels for the Credit conditions were again a source of uneasiness to the "bull" element. A reduction of nearly $8,000,000 in makers' loans last week failed to arouse any widespread enthusiasm. On the other hand call money renewed at 5-14 per cent.

Failure of the Allied Chemicals directors to make a special dividend distribution at today's meeting caused disappointment in some quarters, the stock settling down to 139 and then rallying to 140 1/4, where it was off 1-5/8 on the day. American Smelting stock was again in the limelight. Chesapeake & Ohio, "Nickel Plate" and Erie all advanced. The latter is common and some of the other recent strong spots yielded moderately on realizing.

Call money was on a flat 5 per cent basis as against 4-7-8 to 5 earlier in the week. Prime commercial paper held steady at 4-1/2 per cent.

Wheat prices advanced fractionally. Cotton closed 8-12 in price net lower. Coffee broke 28 to 40 points.

Foreign exchanges held fairly steady with demand sterling quoted at $4.87 1/2 and French francs at around 2.80 cents.

Stock Market Remains Highly

By
R. L. BARNUM

Professional, With Rail Stocks
Strongest on Favorable Earnings Statements.

New York, September 28.—The market was a better tone to the stock market today, but the market remained highly professional with no definite price trend, despite the $57,000,000 decrease reported in the weekly state-lished showing in part that the company's investments in the stocks of other railroads are worth $40,000,000 more value than the net assets of the Pacific common stock or $119 a share. The transportation properties will be placed at a value equal to $180 a share on Union Pacific common.

stent of loans made by banks here in stock exchange collateral.

Mr. Baldwin reported a year ago that net leaves the total $278,000,000 below the year's high and $55,000,000 above the year's low.

He said that the strongest feature of today's market, reflecting additional favorable earnings statements for August and the first nine months of 1920, is the present outlook is for total net operating income for August for all roads considerably above the so-called government guarantee of $100,000,000 a year, a fact that Congress in the remodelled transportation act of 1920 ordered the interstate commerce commission to maintain in mind and present rates at a level that would enable the carriers as a whole if honestly and efficiently managed to pay the government the value of property.

In no year since 1920 has 5-3-4 per vestment income alone, it will be pointed out, is equal to $7.60 a share, and the same is true of the transportation income per share, which is not less than $10 a share. Equally true is that no affiliated companies are doing better than the common share on Union Pacific common. The conclusions reached are that Union Pacific common on its earning power is worth at least $100 a share, and at least $200 a share.

Baldwin's strength is attributed to short covering of an outstanding short interest in the stock, which is the cause in the current borrowing demand for the stock that is stock sold short against long stock carried in strong position.

Mr. Baldwin said that the railroad companies have been making a poor showing for the year but recently business has been picking up. For example, the Erie Railroad has ordered for 97 locomotives. So far been earned on the value of railroad property as held by the carriers through the year. However, the amount required by congress will doubtless be earned.

Union Pacific was strong today on reports that an analysis of the company's position will shortly be published.

30,000 Miles of Railroad In U.S. Should Be Abandoned As Useless, Declares Loree

Head of Katy System Defends Merger Plan Before I. C. C. Against Short Line Protests.

Dallas, Texas, September 28.—(AP) Thirty thousand miles of railroad in the United States should be abandoned as a cancerous growth on the transportation system, L. F. Loree, of New York, chairman of the boards of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas and the Kansas City Southern railroads testified here today at an interstate commerce commission hearing on his application to merge these two lines with the St. Louis Southwestern railroad.

This was his answer to the protest of short line representatives that his proposed merger would crush them.

Asked by counsel whether the plan of consolidation sanctioned by the transportation act of 1920 was intended to save weak lines, he replied that he had often heard this explanation, but that he considered it "so unrealistic as to be unthinkable."

Merger Opposition.

"If you can't pay your own way, you ought not to expect earnings from the pockets of the strong into those of the weak," he added, referring to the absorption of weak lines by strong ones. Loree plans to combine the Katy, the Kansas City Southern and the St. Louis Southwestern in one system through joint stock control.

Among the opponents of the plan are certain short line railroads, chief of which are the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Sabine, a Texas line. The minority stockholders of the Cotton Belt railway, certain New Orleans interests and Oklahoma shipping interests also are opposing the merger.

Under cross examination by Huey P. Long, representing the Louisiana public service commission, Mr. Loree said that 4,000 miles of the 30,000 miles that should be abandoned are in the southwest.

"They are worn-out tools," he continued. "No one has any idea of the loss caused by these virtually dead lines. We've down 2,000,000 tons a year to furnish timber for them, and this is only one item that indicates their enormous loss."

"Principally by truck and passenger automobile," he replied. "But however they are to be supplied they should not be served at the expense of other people's pocketbooks. The whole thing I want to emphasize is that there is no reason for this so-called idea of making the strong lines support the weak. This transportation act was passed as a palliative measure to elect some one to office, if you ask me."

"Yes," said Mr. Loree, "I am Mr. Loree, president of the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Sabine, and Mr. Loree's stand on taking short lines into his consolidation, if they could demonstrate the consolidation would adversely affect these lines."

"This is an age of competition," replied the public service commission.

"You mean let the prosperous live and let the poor starve?" he asked. "If you mean let the prosperous live and let the poor starve, it is not a business and economic standpoint. The best authorities are agreed on that."

"The consolidation under his plan," he believed the Kansas City Southern should have an outlet to New Orleans and that, in turn, would make the Louisiana Railway Navigation company.

GOVERNMENT SEEKS TO RECOVER $3,500,000

Washington, September 28.—(AP)—Assistant Attorney General Ira Lloyd Letts will prosecute the government's civil suit against Joseph F. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, and other former alien property officials, looking to the recovery of more than five and one-half million dollars from the sale of the Bosch Magneto company properties during the world war.

General Sargent personally has approved filing of the action the justice department has carried forward its proceedings with the utmost secrecy and with the understanding that no announcement would be made until summons were served on a number of defendants.

The most comprehensive story of the Bosch company ever told was that of George W. Stock, a Jersey department agent, who testified under oath before a senate committee in April, 1924, that Martin E. Kern, of Pennsylvania, wealthy brewer and newspaper owner, made more than $300,000 out of the Bosch transaction without putting in one cent.

The property was sold to Kern, who then organized the present American Bosch Magneto company.

$43,000 OFFERED FOR STORM RELIEF

Mailing of a check for $43,000 to Washington headquarters of the American Red Cross Tuesday by Robert S. Parker, Atlanta chairman of the organization, raised the amount of relief funds for Florida already sent out by Atlanta to $13,000.

In response to an appeal by the board of directors of the Atlanta Merchants and Manufacturers' association, $800 in cash and $500 in merchandise was subscribed to the Florida relief fund by members, according to announcement Tuesday by C. Arthur Kitchings, chairman of the directing board.

Following is a list of those members who subscribed to the special fund:

W. H. Moore, $50; Princess Manufacturing company, $50; Georgia Fireworks, $10; J. P. Womack & Sons, $10; Longevity, Little & Redwine, wholesale dry goods, $25; Nunnally & McKee company, $100; Atlanta Envelope company, $10; American Hat Manufacturing company, $25; Grant, Spaulding & Co., $25; Hamilton Carhart mills, $50; Atlanta Manufacturing company, $10; Nutrafine company, $10; Montgomery Ward, $10; J. H. Regan, $10; Kitchings, $50; J. D. Robinson, $100; J. K. Orr, $100; H. Mendel, $100.

An additional $10,000 or more is being sought from contributions to the collected, which will make Atlanta's share of funds for relief of storm victims amount to between $50,000 and $60,000.

Mr. Parker said Tuesday afternoon. Small contributions Tuesday continued their steady flow into the Atlanta Red Cross offices, with a check for $1,000 being received from the Georgia Merchants and Manufacturers' association, which was made within the next future. In addition to those already announced.

Those who sent money to the Red Cross Tuesday through The Constitution were: Mrs. Lena Fitzsimmons, $20; citizens of Norwood, $15; J. M. Van Hurling, $10; C. F. Roddy, $10; and E. H. Burrage, of Cornelia, $1.

Mr. Parker Tuesday received a telegram from John Barton Payne, national chairman of the Red Cross, stating that the situation in Florida has not been exaggerated, and that everyone should respond promptly to the appeal for aid so that immediate steps may be taken to secure relief for the storm victims.

More large contributions are needed, Mr. Parker said, expressing hope that those able to do so will contribute in their bit toward storm relief.

The Constitution Tuesday learned that Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Connor, Raymond L. Brooks, J. Mitchell, Aiken, Guy Williams, Howard Elliott, and John Hudson are safe in Miami.

Several fractured ribs and a crushed foot were suffered by Dr. George E. Woollard, former Atlanta physician, who word received in Atlanta, W. T. Giles, son of J. M. Giles, of Atlanta, is safe in Miami. Mrs. Oscar Ross, of Fort Lauderdale, formerly of Grantville, Ga., and her family also are safe.

"Missing Link" Skull Found In Central Java

Batavia, Java, September 28.—(AP) Professor Heberlein, of the Netherlands government medical service, has discovered at Trinil, in central Java, a complete skull of the prehistoric ape-like creature termed by some "missing link," and by science, "pithecanthropus erectus."

The skull was found at the same place where Professor Eugene Dubois, of the Netherlands government medical service, in 1892 the upper part of a skull, two teeth and a thigh bone, from which was reconstructed the previously unknown creature designated as "pithecanthropus erectus."

Professor Heberlein's specimen, which is complete and sound, will be kept in Dutch East Indies, as the exportation of such relics is prohibited.

Dr. Dubois' famous discovery was made on the left bank of the Bengawan river, near Trinil. Much discussion followed, with many authorities opposing Dr. Dubois' theory. The creature was not held to bridge the entire gulf between man and the ape, but some scientists argued that it constituted a further piece of evidence in that direction.

BALDWIN COUNTY RACE WILL GO TO COMMITTEE

Millersville, Ga., September 28.—(AP)—It is certain that the state democratic executive committee will have to decide the contest between Rev. J. F. McCluney and Marion Allen for the place as representative from Baldwin county.
